Oracle Cloud Infrastructure 2025 Multicloud Architect Professional Sample Questions (Q49-Q54):

NEW QUESTION # 49

When configuring Oracle Interconnect for Google Cloud, what key resource must be created in the Google Cloud environment?

- A. Shared VPC with OCI
- B. Partner Interconnect VLAN attachment
- C. Cross-Cloud Interconnect VLAN attachment

- D. Google Cloud NAT gateway

Answer: B

Explanation:

Configuring Oracle Interconnect for Google Cloud requires creating a Partner Interconnect VLAN attachment in GCP, which pairs with OCI's FastConnect virtual circuit for private connectivity. Shared VPC (Option A) is unrelated, NAT gateways (Option C) are for internet access, and "Cross-Cloud Interconnect" (Option D) is not a GCP term. Oracle's setup guide confirms the VLAN attachment's role.

NEW QUESTION # 50

Which Autonomous Database deployment option offers exclusive use of Exadata hardware?

- A. Dedicated Deployment
- B. Standalone Deployment
- C. Exclusive Deployment
- D. Serverless

Answer: A

Explanation:

Here's why:

Autonomous Database Dedicated Infrastructure: This deployment option provides you with dedicated Exadata infrastructure for your Autonomous Databases. You get exclusive use of the Exadata hardware, providing the highest level of isolation, security, and control.

Here's why the other options are not correct:

Exclusive Deployment: This is not a standard term used for Autonomous Database deployment options.

Standalone Deployment: While not an official term, this might be confused with Serverless, which uses shared infrastructure.

Serverless: In the Serverless deployment option, your Autonomous Database shares Exadata infrastructure with other users. This provides a cost-effective solution for many workloads but doesn't offer exclusive use of hardware.

NEW QUESTION # 51

What is required to configure Oracle Interconnect for Google Cloud?

- A. Virtual Circuits on OCI and Partner Interconnects on GCP
- B. Direct Internet connection
- C. Integration with Microsoft Active Directory
- D. A public subnet on both OCI and GCP

Answer: A

Explanation:

Configuring the Oracle Interconnect for Google Cloud requires Virtual Circuits on OCI (via FastConnect) and Partner Interconnects on GCP, establishing a private, high-speed link between the clouds. A direct internet connection (Option A) defeats the purpose of a private interconnect, while Microsoft Active Directory (Option B) is unrelated to network setup. Public subnets (Option D) are not required-private connectivity is the goal. This setup is detailed in Oracle's multicloud networking documentation.

NEW QUESTION # 52

Which workload type is NOT optimized for Oracle Autonomous Database on Shared Exadata Infrastructure?

- A. Mixed workloads
- B. Data warehousing
- C. High-performance computing
- D. Transaction processing

Answer: C

Explanation:

Oracle Autonomous Database on Shared Exadata Infrastructure is optimized for data warehousing (Option A), mixed workloads (Option B), and transaction processing (Option D), leveraging Exadata's performance and automation. High-performance computing (HPC, Option C), typically involving compute-intensive tasks like simulations, is not a primary focus-OCI offers separate HPC solutions. Oracle's documentation confirms these workload optimizations.

NEW QUESTION # 53

Which of the following is NOT a primary benefit typically associated with adopting a multicloud strategy?

- A. Improved resilience and business continuity by distributing workloads across multiple environments
- B. Reduced risk of vendor lock-in, fostering greater negotiating power.
- C. Simplified operational management through a unified, multi-cloud platform.
- D. Access to a wide array of specialized services from different providers, driving innovation.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Here's why:

Multicloud complexity: While there are tools emerging to help with multi-cloud management, the reality is that managing multiple cloud environments increases operational complexity. Each cloud provider has its own set of tools, APIs, management consoles, and best practices. Integrating these disparate systems and achieving true unified management is a significant challenge, not a simplification.

Here's why the other options are typical benefits:

- a) Reduced risk of vendor lock-in: By using multiple cloud providers, organizations avoid being completely dependent on a single vendor. This provides greater flexibility, negotiating power, and the ability to switch providers if necessary.
- b) Access to a wide array of specialized services: Different cloud providers excel in different areas. A multicloud strategy allows organizations to leverage the best-of-breed services from each provider, optimizing for specific workloads and driving innovation.
- d) Improved resilience and business continuity: Distributing workloads across multiple cloud environments provides redundancy and fault tolerance. If one cloud provider experiences an outage, applications can continue to run in other environments, enhancing business continuity.
