Universal Containers (UC) has a flow which performs some custom logic in order to determine a least-cost shipping location. Some of the variables should be reset at the beginning of each loop iteration. Which design element in Flow allows the Admin to do this?

- A. Preset
- B. Reset
- C. Assignment

- D. Reassignment

Answer: C

Explanation:

The design element in Flow that allows the admin to reset some variables at the beginning of each loop iteration is Assignment. An Assignment element lets the admin assign new values to one or more variables or sObject fields in a flow. The admin can use an Assignment element before a Loop element to initialize the variables that are used in the loop, and then use another Assignment element inside the loop to reset the variables for each iteration. NEW QUESTION # 68

An administrator is encountering errors when reusing a composite API call to load test orders via the Workbench. What are three possible causes of this issue?

- A. The administrator is creating multiple objects in a single JSON query
- B. The administrator has duplicate Product SKUs in the JSON query
- C. The number of subrequests in the JSON query exceeds the 20 subrequest limit
- D. The Administrator has logged into the wrong environment in Workbench
- E. Record IDs used within the request are incorrect

Answer: B,C,E

Explanation:

Three possible causes of this issue are:

The administrator has duplicate Product SKUs in the JSON query. A Product SKU is a unique identifier for a product that is used to track inventory and sales. A Product SKU must be unique within an org, and it cannot be duplicated in a composite API call. If the administrator has duplicate Product SKUs in the JSON query, it will cause an error when loading test orders via the Workbench.

The number of subrequests in the JSON query exceeds the 20 subrequest limit. A subrequest is a single HTTP request that is part of a composite API call. A composite API call can contain up to 20 subrequests in a single JSON body. If the administrator has more than 20 subrequests in the JSON query, it will cause an error when loading test orders via the Workbench.

Record IDs used within the request are incorrect. A record ID is a unique identifier for a record that is used to reference and manipulate data in Salesforce. A record ID must be valid and exist in the org, and it must match the data type and format of the corresponding field. If the administrator has incorrect record IDs in the JSON query, such as using 15-character IDs instead of 18-character IDs, or using IDs from a different org, it will cause an error when loading test orders via the Workbench.

- A. Create an email alert action
- B. Create an approval process on the Payment Summary object
- C. Create a trigger flow when the payment summary is created with an email flow node
- D. Create an email template
- E. Create a flow to send an email to the owner of the associated account when a payment summary is created

Answer: A,B,D

Explanation:

Three steps that the administrator should do to implement this functionality are:

Create an email template. An email template is a reusable message that contains merge fields that are populated with data from records when the email is sent. The administrator can create an email template for the Payment Summary object that includes information such as the payment amount, date, status, etc.

Create an email alert action. An email alert action is a type of action that sends an email to one or more recipients when a flow executes. The administrator can create an email alert action that uses the email template created in the previous step and sends it to the owner of the associated account when a new Payment Summary is created.

Create an approval process on the Payment Summary object. An approval process is a way to automate the approval of records based on certain criteria and actions. The administrator can create an approval process on the Payment Summary object that requires an approval after review from a designated approver.
