Oracle Cloud Infrastructure 2025 Data Science Professional Sample Questions (Q39-Q44):

NEW QUESTION # 39

You want to create an anomaly detection model using the OCI Anomaly Detection service that avoids as many false alarms as possible. False Alarm Probability (FAP) indicates model performance. How would you set the value of the False Alarm Probability?

- A. Zero
- B. Low
- C. High
- D. Use a function

Answer: B

Explanation:

Detailed Answer in Step-by-Step Solution:

- * Objective: Minimize false alarms in OCI Anomaly Detection.
- * Understand FAP: False Alarm Probability-lower FAP means fewer false positives.
- * Evaluate Options:
- * A: High FAP-Increases false alarms-incorrect.
- * B: Low FAP-Reduces false alarms-correct.
- * C: Zero FAP-Unrealistic; risks missing true anomalies.
- * D: Function-Vague, not a direct setting.
- * Reasoning: Low FAP balances sensitivity and false positives- aligns with goal.
- * Conclusion: B is correct.

OCI Anomaly Detection documentation states: "Set a low False Alarm Probability (FAP) to minimize false positives, though too low (e.g., zero) may miss anomalies." B fits the goal-high (A) increases errors, zero (C) is impractical, and function (D) isn't specified. Oracle Cloud Infrastructure Anomaly Detection Documentation, "Configuring FAP".

NEW QUESTION # 40

Which statement best describes Oracle Cloud Infrastructure Data Science Jobs?

- A. Jobs let you define and run all Oracle Cloud DevOps workloads.
- B. Jobs let you define and run repeatable tasks on customer-managed infrastructure.
- C. Jobs let you define and run repeatable tasks on fully managed infrastructure.
- D. Jobs let you define and run repeatable tasks on fully managed third-party cloud infrastructures.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Detailed Answer in Step-by-Step Solution:

- * Understand OCI Data Science Jobs: This service automates ML tasks (e.g., training, evaluation) with configurable, repeatable executions.
- * Key Characteristics: Jobs run on OCI's infrastructure, managed by Oracle, not the customer or third parties, and are specific to Data Science, not general DevOps.
- * Evaluate Options:
- * A: Correct-Jobs are defined by users (e.g., via scripts) and executed on OCI's fully managed compute resources.
- * B: Incorrect-Infrastructure is managed by OCI, not the customer.
- * C: Incorrect-No third-party cloud integration; it's OCI-specific.
- * D: Incorrect-Jobs are for Data Science tasks (e.g., ML training), not all DevOps workloads (e.g., CI/CD pipelines).
- * Reasoning: "Fully managed" means OCI handles provisioning and scaling, aligning with A.
- * Conclusion: A accurately reflects the service's purpose and operation.

OCI Data Science Jobs "allow users to define and execute repeatable machine learning tasks, such as model training or batch processing, on fully managed OCI infrastructure." This eliminates customer management (B), third-party clouds (C), or broad DevOps scope (D). The documentation emphasizes automation and management by OCI, making A the precise description. Oracle Cloud Infrastructure Data Science Documentation, "Overview of Jobs" section.

NEW QUESTION # 41

Which is NOT a valid OCI Data Science notebook session approach?

- A. While connecting to data in OCI Object Storage from your notebook session, the best practice is to make a local copy on the device and then upload it to your notebook session block volume
- B. Avoid having multiple users in the same notebook session due to the possibility of resource contention and write conflicts
- C. Authenticate using your notebook session's resource principal to access other OCI resources. Resource principals provide a more secure way to authenticate to resources compared to the OCI configuration and API approach
- D. Ensure you don't execute long-running Python processes in a notebook cell
- E. Run the process directly in the terminal and use Python logging to get updates on the progress of your job

Answer: A

Explanation:

Detailed Answer in Step-by-Step Solution:

- * Objective: Identify an invalid notebook session practice.
- * Evaluate Options:
- * A: Valid-Long runs should use Jobs, not notebooks.
- * B: Valid-Terminal runs with logging are supported.
- * C: Valid-Multi-user conflicts are a concern.
- * D: Invalid-Copying from Object Storage to block volume is unnecessary; direct access is best.
- * E: Valid-Resource principals are secure and recommended.
- * Reasoning: D contradicts OCI's direct-access efficiency.
- * Conclusion: D is incorrect.

OCI documentation advises: "Access data in Object Storage directly from notebook sessions using SDKs or resource principals-avoid local copies (D) unless necessary." A, B, C, and E are best practices-D is inefficient and not standard.
Oracle Cloud Infrastructure Data Science Documentation, "Notebook Session Best Practices".

NEW QUESTION # 42

As a data scientist for a hardware company, you have been asked to predict the revenue demand for the upcoming quarter. You develop a time series forecasting model to analyze the data. Select the correct sequence of steps to predict the revenue demand values for the upcoming quarter.

- A. Prepare model, deploy, verify, save, predict
- B. Predict, deploy, save, verify, prepare model
- C. Verify, prepare model, deploy, save, predict
- D. Prepare model, verify, save, deploy, predict

Answer: D

Explanation:

Detailed Answer in Step-by-Step Solution:

- * Prepare Model: Build and train the time series model using historical data.
- * Verify: Validate the model's accuracy (e.g., using metrics like MAE or RMSE).
- * Save: Store the trained model (e.g., in the OCI Model Catalog).
- * Deploy: Make the model available for predictions (e.g., via OCI Model Deployment).
- * Predict: Generate revenue forecasts for the upcoming quarter.
- * Evaluate Options: D follows this logical flow; others (e.g., A starts with "verify" before preparation) don't.

In OCI Data Science, the workflow for time series forecasting involves preparing the model (training), verifying its performance, saving it to the catalog, deploying it, and then predicting. This sequence is standard for ML deployment in OCI, as per the documentation. (Reference: Oracle Cloud Infrastructure Data Science Documentation, "Time Series Forecasting Workflow").

NEW QUESTION # 43

Which Web Application Firewall (WAF) service component must be configured to allow, block, or log network requests when they meet specified criteria?

- A. Web Application Firewall policy
- B. Protection rules
- C. Origin
- D. Bot Management

Answer: B

Explanation:

Detailed Answer in Step-by-Step Solution:

- * Objective: Identify the WAF component that controls request actions based on criteria.
- * Understand WAF Components:
- * Protection Rules: Define conditions and actions (e.g., allow, block, log).
- * Bot Management: Handles bot traffic, not general request rules.
- * Origin: Backend server endpoint, not rule-based.
- * WAF Policy: Umbrella config, but rules specify actions.
- * Evaluate Options:
- * A: Protection rules-Set specific criteria and actions-correct.
- * B: Bot Management-Bot-specific, not general requests.

* C: Origin-Defines source, not actions.

* D: WAF policy-Broad config, not the granular rules.

* Reasoning: Protection rules directly manage request behavior-fit the requirement.

* Conclusion: A is correct.

OCI documentation states: "Protection rules (A) in WAF define conditions (e.g., IP, URL) and actions (allow, block, log) for incoming requests." Bot Management (B) targets bots, Origin (C) is a target server, and WAF Policy (D) encompasses rules but isn't the action specifier-only A aligns with OCI's WAF configuration.

Oracle Cloud Infrastructure WAF Documentation, "Protection Rules".
