ISQI ISTQB Foundation Level - Acceptance Testing Sample Questions (Q48-Q53):

NEW QUESTION # 48

Which of the following information is most likely part of an acceptance test summary report?

- A. Test procedure information.
- B. Test strategy and test design methods.
- C. Technical details on defect fixes.
- D. Information to evaluate the level of risk for product release.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 49

Which one of the following statements BEST explains how the quality of requirements / user stories and acceptance criteria affects acceptance testing?

- A. Vague or ambiguous requirements may lead to misunderstandings both during implementation and testing
- B. INVEST is a technique that ensure the quality of user stories or requirements, thus replacing regular reviews
- C. Testers may complete unclear requirements by assumptions, as long as they discuss those assumptions with at least one stakeholder
- D. In Agile development lifecycle models, requirement engineering becomes less important due to the product owner role.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Clear, complete, and testable requirements or user stories are critical for effective acceptance testing.

Ambiguities or vague statements lead to differing interpretations by stakeholders, developers, and testers. This often results in software that doesn't meet user expectations or in tests that fail to verify business needs correctly.

Option B is correct because it highlights the importance of precise requirements in both implementation and testing phases.

Ambiguities can result in incorrect behavior, untestable features, or test cases that don't align with business goals.

Other options:

A is risky - while testers may explore assumptions during exploratory testing, relying on assumptions rather than clarification increases risk.

C is incorrect - the INVEST mnemonic helps write better user stories, but it doesn't replace review or validation processes.

D is false - Agile still values requirements engineering; it's more collaborative and incremental, with the product owner playing a key role, not diminishing its importance.

B). Vague or ambiguous requirements may lead to misunderstandings both during implementation and testing

NEW QUESTION # 50

Which of the following activities is most likely performed by the business analyst as part of defect analysis?

- A. Identify the requirements / user stories that are not satisfied.
- B. Check, whether other paths in the business process model perform as intended.
- C. Analyze the function that failed step by step to identify the cause of the defect.
- D. Assess the impact of corrective actions on other parts of the system's implementation.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 51

On a project to develop an event booking platform, a review session is being conducted on acceptance test cases written in Gherkin's language. Consider the following test case:

1. GIVEN I am logged in on the event booking platform
 2. AND I have selected an event from the list displayed for the "live concert" category
 3. WHEN I click "Buy Tickets" button
 4. AND I enter "3" into "Ticket quantity" field
 5. AND I agree on terms and conditions
 6. THEN The system should display the checkout page
 7. AND I should provide my personal data for payment and ticket delivery
- Which of the following sentences MOST closely corresponds to a comment that could be made on this test case during the review?

- A. Line 3 refers to an element to the user interface, which is to be avoided and line 7 is an action and not a result
- B. Line 3 refers to an element of the user interface which is to be avoided, line 4 the quantity should not be set and line 7 is an action and not a result
- C. The "When" part lacks an action to enter number of tickets request that is greater than the limit allowed per person
- D. This test case is perfectly written

Answer: A

Explanation:

In Gherkin syntax (Given-When-Then), the purpose is to describe system behavior in a way that's understandable to all stakeholders. Test steps should focus on user intentions and observable results - not UI implementation details - to ensure maintainability and abstraction.

Line 3 ("click 'Buy Tickets' button") refers explicitly to a UI element, which should generally be avoided in acceptance tests. Instead, it could say "I request to buy tickets." Line 7 ("I should provide my personal data") is describing an action the user must take, not an outcome or result. In a Gherkin "Then" step, we expect an observable system response, not further user interaction.

Option C identifies both of these review concerns correctly.

Other options:

A includes an incorrect comment about line 4 ("quantity should not be set") - setting a value is acceptable.

B is false - the test case has reviewable issues.

D might be valid in a different context (e.g., boundary tests), but that's not a flaw in the existing scenario.

C). Line 3 refers to an element of the user interface, which is to be avoided and line 7 is an action and not a result

NEW QUESTION # 52

Assume you are testing functionality of the interface of an elevator. One of the requirements is that the elevator can work only if the total weight of the passengers does not exceed 200 kg. The elevator can reach the following floors: Ground Floor, 1st floor and 2nd floor. You want to create an acceptance test using the Gherkin language. You can use the following phrases for this purpose:

i. the total weight of passengers is greater than 200 kg

ii. the elevator is on the Ground Floor

iii. a button '1st floor' was pressed

iv. the elevator goes to the 1st floor

v. a passenger standing at the 2nd floor calls the elevator

vi. a message 'too many passengers' is displayed on the screen

Which of the following statements correctly matches constructs of Given/When/Then with a relevant phrase in order to create a correct test case for the given requirement?

- A. GIVEN ii)
WHEN v) AND vi) THEN i)
- B. GIVEN ii)
WHEN iv)
THEN v)
- C. GIVEN iii)
WHEN ii)
THEN iv)
- D. GIVEN ii)
WHEN i)
THEN vi)

Answer: D
