ISACA Advanced in AI Audit Sample Questions (Q119-Q124):

NEW QUESTION # 119

Which of the following is the MOST important risk for an IS auditor to consider when reviewing the adoption of an AI system?

- A. Immaturity of AI systems in the industry
- B. Bias in AI system decision making
- C. Costs associated with AI system maintenance
- D. Resistance to the use of AI technology

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 120

Which of the following should be done FIRST when developing an incident management process for AI threats?

- A. Establish incident classification procedures
- B. Develop incident escalation procedures
- C. Configure SIEM for security alerts
- D. Define clear roles and responsibilities

Answer: D

Explanation:

The AAIA framework states that incident response begins with roles and responsibilities. Without clearly assigned accountability, no classification, escalation, or detection procedures can be effectively implemented.

Defining roles ensures:

- * Ownership of monitoring
- * Chain of command for incident decisions
- * Clear responsibility for documentation
- * Communication pathways
- * Allocation of resources for containment

Classification (A), escalation (B), and SIEM configuration (C) follow AFTER roles are assigned. Therefore, defining roles and responsibilities is foundational.

NEW QUESTION # 121

An organization's system development process has been enhanced with AI. Which of the following features presents the GREATEST risk?

- A. The AI allocates resources for new system development projects.
- B. All codes are generated by AI without human oversight.
- C. The AI personalizes applications for the user.
- D. Non-technical users are validating AI results.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 122

Which of the following controls MOST effectively helps to ensure an AI model is resilient against external threats?

- A. Monitoring of AI model developers
- B. AI data set anonymization
- C. Monitoring of AI access logs
- D. AI model configuration testing

Answer: D

Explanation:

Ensuring AI model resilience against external threats involves validating that the model is configured to resist attacks, such as adversarial inputs, data poisoning, or misuse. The AAIA™ Study Guide emphasizes configuration testing as a crucial control to simulate threat scenarios and assess robustness.

"Model configuration testing simulates real-world threat conditions to validate model resilience. This includes testing against adversarial attacks, input manipulation, and exposure of sensitive outputs." While access monitoring (C) and anonymization (A) reduce risks, they don't actively validate model behavior under threat conditions. Therefore, D offers the most effective resilience measure.

NEW QUESTION # 123

An IS auditor is interviewing management about implemented controls around machine learning (ML) models deployed in the production environment. Which of the following schedules for reviewing the performance of a deployed model would be of GREATEST concern to the auditor?

- A. One time prior to migrating to production
- B. After functionality changes
- C. After changes to hardware and software platforms
- D. On an annual recurring basis

Answer: A

Explanation:

Only reviewing an ML model's performance one time prior to migrating to production (option C) is of greatest concern. The AAIA™ Study Guide emphasizes that "AI and ML models require continuous monitoring and periodic performance reviews in production to detect issues such as data drift, model degradation, or evolving risk factors." A single pre-production review fails to capture these changes and risks, potentially resulting in undetected failures or compliance issues.

Periodic (including annual) and event-driven reviews are necessary to ensure ongoing model reliability.
