NEW QUESTION # 90

Which Safe(s) does the AllowedSafes=Win platform parameter configuration match? (Choose two.)

- A. WindowsPasswords
- B. WiNdOwS_Accts
- C. win-ssh-keys
- D. SQL-Win-SA
- E. CXD-WIN-ADMINS

Answer: A,D

Explanation:

AllowedSafes is a regular expression and is case sensitive.

The regex Win (with no anchors) will match any Safe name that contains the exact substring "Win" with the same case:

- * WindowsPasswords # starts with Win #
- * SQL-Win-SA # contains Win #
- * win-ssh-keys # contains win (lowercase) # (case sensitive)
- * CXD-WIN-ADMINS # contains WIN (all caps) #
- * WiNdOwS_Accts # mixed case, does not contain the exact substring Win # Therefore the correct choices are A and D.

NEW QUESTION # 92

When installing the PSM and CPM components on the same Privilege Cloud Connector, what should you consider when hardening?

- A. CPM settings override the PSM settings when referring to the same parameter
- B. PSM settings override the CPM settings when referring to the same parameter.
- C. They can only be installed on the same Privilege Cloud Connector when installed 'out of Domain'.
- D. They can only be installed on the same Privilege Cloud Connector when installed 'in Domain'.

Answer: B

Explanation:

When installing the PSM and CPM components on the same Privilege Cloud Connector and considering the hardening process, it's important to note that PSM settings override the CPM settings when referring to the same parameter. This hierarchy is crucial in ensuring that the more stringent security settings required by PSM, which typically handles direct interaction with end-user sessions, take precedence over CPM settings.

This setup helps maintain robust security practices by applying the most restrictive configuration where conflicts occur.
