Guidewire Associate Certification - InsuranceSuite Analyst - Mammoth Proctored Exam Sample Questions (Q35-Q40):

NEW QUESTION # 35

Which team members are part of the Three Amigos meeting? (Select two)

- A. Scrum Master
- B. Project Manager
- C. Subject Matter Expert
- D. Business Analyst
- E. Quality Analyst

Answer: D,E

Explanation:

The Three Amigos meeting is a key Agile practice used in Guidewire projects to clarify user stories before development begins. It ensures shared understanding across execution roles and reduces defects caused by misinterpretation.

Two of the required participants in a Three Amigos session are the Business Analyst and the Quality Analyst, making Options A and B correct.

The Business Analyst represents business intent and functional requirements. They explain the user story, business rules, validations, and expected behavior.

The Quality Analyst represents the testing perspective. They focus on acceptance criteria, edge cases, and how the story will be validated to determine when it is "done." While Developers are typically the third "Amigo" in practice, they are not listed as an option in this question.

The Project Manager and Scrum Master facilitate delivery but do not play the execution-focused role of an Amigo. Subject Matter Experts provide input during elaboration but are not core participants in Three Amigos sessions.

NEW QUESTION # 36

Story huddles are used to clarify functional requirement details and typically involve collaboration among which three required project team members?

- A. Subject Matter Experts
- B. Developers
- C. Product Owners
- D. Business Analysts
- E. Quality Analysts

Answer: B,D,E

NEW QUESTION # 37

Which of the following describes what are User Story acceptance criteria?
Choose 2 options.

- A. They tell when a user story is 'done'
- B. They describe the role, the expected action, and the reason why the action is needed
- C. They describe the value delivered to end-user
- D. They are a checklist of key activities that must be completed in order to accept a story

Answer: A,D

Explanation:

The correct answers are A and D because acceptance criteria define the conditions that must be satisfied for a user story to be considered complete and acceptable. In Guidewire-style requirements work, user stories capture a business need at a high level, while acceptance criteria add the specific expectations that clarify how the team and stakeholders will know the story has been successfully delivered.

A). They are a checklist of key activities that must be completed in order to accept a story is correct because acceptance criteria function as a practical set of conditions or checkpoints. They guide development, testing, and business validation by making the expected results explicit. Although not always written as task steps, they serve as a measurable list of what must be true before the story is accepted.

D). They tell when a user story is 'done' is also correct because that is one of the main purposes of acceptance criteria. They define the boundaries of completion and help avoid ambiguity about whether the delivered functionality meets the intended requirement. This supports better collaboration among analysts, developers, testers, and business stakeholders.

B is incorrect because describing the value delivered to the end-user is part of the user story itself, not the acceptance criteria. C is also incorrect because describing the role, action, and reason follows the common user story format such as "As a [role], I want [action] , so that [benefit]." That structure defines the story statement, while acceptance criteria define the testable conditions for acceptance.

So, acceptance criteria are best understood as the conditions/checklist used to determine when a story is complete and acceptable .

NEW QUESTION # 38

An insurance company's project team is transitioning from Inception to Sprint Zero for their Commercial Property product implementation. A critical step is the organization of confirmed user story cards for development. At the conclusion of the Inception phase, the process for building out user story cards is guided by _____ and ensures alignment with strategic business objectives.

- A. Project communication matrix
- B. Key decision log
- C. Conceptual sprint plan
- D. Comprehensive test suite
- E. Change management strategy
- F. Requirements elaboration

Answer: C

Explanation:

In Guidewire SurePath methodology, the transition from Inception to Sprint Zero represents a shift from planning and alignment to execution readiness. One of the most important outcomes of Inception is the organization and preparation of confirmed user story cards for upcoming development work.

At the conclusion of Inception, the process for building out and sequencing user story cards is guided by the conceptual sprint plan, making Option F the correct answer. The conceptual sprint plan provides a high-level roadmap that outlines when groups of stories are expected to be developed, based on business priorities, dependencies, and delivery milestones.

This plan ensures alignment with strategic business objectives by sequencing stories in a way that delivers incremental value early and reduces risk. It does not assign detailed tasks or commit teams to exact timelines, but instead provides directional guidance that informs Sprint Zero planning and backlog refinement.

The other options do not fulfill this role. A key decision log (Option A) records decisions but does not guide story sequencing. Requirements elaboration (Option B) occurs during Inception but does not organize confirmed stories for development. A project communication matrix (Option C), comprehensive test suite (Option D), and change management strategy (Option E) are not used to guide backlog organization at this stage.

The conceptual sprint plan bridges the gap between business vision and Agile execution, making it a critical artifact as teams move into Sprint Zero.

NEW QUESTION # 39

An example of a tool built by Guidewire Professional Services to support implementation projects is:

- A. Business objective
- B. Guiding principle
- C. Requirement
- D. User story card

Answer: D
