Adobe Real-Time CDP Business Practitioner Professional Sample Questions (Q11-Q16):

NEW QUESTION # 11

A customer has noticed incorrect data was loaded into the Real-Time Customer Profile for only two profiles. The data came from a single XDM Individual Profile class-based dataset. What actions can the customer take to correct the problem?

- A. Delete the entire dataset containing the incorrect profiles
- B. Delete the batch that created the problem from the dataset in the data lake and let the profile roll- back to its previous state
- C. Re-load all the affected profiles with the correct data and have the profile update and/or replace the existing records in the dataset
- D. Look up each profile in the UI and update the incorrect attributes manually

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 12

What is the primary goal of activation in Adobe RT-CDP?

- A. Enforcing data governance policies.
- B. Creating static customer profiles.
- C. Delivering personalized experiences across various destinations.
- D. Storing customer data for future analysis.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 13

A data engineer encounters persistent ingestion failures for a batch ingestion in the Adobe Real-Time CDP. To troubleshoot and resolve the issue, what two steps would the data engineer take? (Choose two.)

- A. Review the data in the Batch Preview Service
- B. Consult the Adobe Developer Console for error logs
- C. Review the Failed Ingestion Records in Source connection UI
- D. Enable the 'Error Reporting' function in the Profile tab
- E. Enable Error diagnostic on the Source Connector settings

Answer: C,E

Explanation:

Troubleshooting batch ingestion failures in Adobe Real-Time CDP requires utilizing the platform's built-in monitoring and diagnostic tools. Option A is the most immediate step: the Source connection UI provides a detailed breakdown of ingestion runs. By navigating to the dataflow monitoring dashboard, the engineer can view specific "Failed" batches and download error diagnostics that reveal if the failure was due to schema violations, identity errors, or connection timeouts.

Option E is a critical proactive step for resolution. Enabling Error diagnostics within the Source Connector settings allows the platform to capture and store detailed information about specific records that failed to ingest. This feature often includes "Partial Ingestion" support, where valid records are accepted while invalid ones are routed to an error diagnostic file for review.

Option B is incorrect because the Developer Console is used for API management and project configuration, not for viewing row-level ingestion logs. Option C, the Batch Preview Service, allows you to see data before it is processed but does not provide diagnostic logs for why a process failed post-execution. Option D is incorrect as "Error Reporting" is not a toggle found in the Profile tab; profile issues are usually downstream results of ingestion failures. Using Source monitoring and diagnostic settings provides the engineer with the granular visibility needed to fix mapping or data quality issues.

NEW QUESTION # 14

A company has completed their implementation of Adobe Experience Platform (AEP) and is successfully onboarding data and profiles, but they are struggling with managing data across their services. What tool would best aid the company in inspecting, manipulating, and analyzing dataset data in AEP Data Lake?

- A. Data Usage Labeling and Enforcement (DULE)
- B. Data Governance API
- C. Data Compliance Settings
- D. Adobe Query Service

Answer: D

Explanation:

Adobe Experience Platform Query Service is the foundational tool designed for inspecting, validating, and transforming data within the Data Lake. While AEP stores data in a NoSQL environment, Query Service provides a Standard SQL interface that allows data architects and engineers to interact with datasets as if they were relational tables. This is critical for post-ingestion data preparation and for analyzing complex customer journeys that span multiple datasets.

The service is primarily used for ad hoc data exploration—allowing users to run SELECT queries to verify that ingested data matches the expected schema and quality standards before it is enabled for the Real-Time Customer Profile. Beyond simple inspection, it supports Batch Queries (using "Create Table As Select" or CTAS) to derive new datasets from existing ones, which can then be used for reporting or re-ingested into the Profile Service.

Options A, C, and D refer to the Data Governance framework, which is used for labeling data and enforcing usage policies (DULE) or managing compliance. While these are essential for managing access and privacy, they do not provide the analytical or manipulative capabilities required to query the raw data rows. Query Service remains the only tool within the platform that allows for deep SQL-based analysis of the full Data Lake history.

NEW QUESTION # 15

A healthcare organization using Adobe RT-CDP wants to restrict access to sensitive patient data based on geographic location. What governance feature should they implement?

- A. Role-Based Access Control (RBAC).
- B. Real-time segmentation rules.
- C. Identity resolution guardrails.
- D. Attribute-Based Access Control (ABAC).

Answer: D
