Adobe Commerce Developer Expert Sample Questions (Q38-Q43):

NEW QUESTION # 38

An Adobe Commerce Cloud Developer is tasked with investigating slow page loads and intermittent errors reported by a client after a recent deployment to their Pro Production environment.

Which action should the Developer use to quickly access and analyze the necessary data?

- A. Connect via SSH into each production node to review system and application logs independently for a more accurate representation of issues being logged.
- B. Access Cloud Console to review environment messages and deployment logs that took place during the previous deployment to production.
- C. Go to New Relic Log Management to access aggregated log data, allowing the analysis of application, infrastructure, CDN, and WAF errors.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 39

An Adobe Commerce Cloud client alerts a Developer to an issue with their website going down during deployments.

What should the Developer do to solve this problem?

- A. From the Adobe Commerce Cloud console, the zero downtime deployment checkbox must be selected for the project.
- B. In the cloud env configuration YAML file, the static content deploy strategy must be defined in the build phase.
- C. In the cloud app configuration YAML file, the deployment strategy must be defined in the global phase.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Adobe Commerce Cloud deployments can cause downtime if static content deployment happens during the deploy phase (when the site is live).

The recommended best practice is to move static content deployment to the build phase by configuring it in `magento.env.yaml`. This ensures static assets are generated before deployment, enabling zero-downtime deployments.

A is incorrect: deployment strategies belong in `magento.env.yaml`, not the global app YAML file.

B is incorrect: there is no such checkbox in the Cloud console.

C is correct and aligns with Adobe best practices.

NEW QUESTION # 40

A Developer creates daily cron jobs to automate a client's business processes, including automated stock imports via CSV files once per day. After a few days, it is noted that the cron jobs do not run daily. The Developer discovers the cron jobs are sometimes assigned a missed status and do not execute, and other cron jobs become stuck during the execution time of the custom cron jobs. Which option should the Developer use to ensure the cron jobs consistently run each day?

- A. Implement a custom group for the cron jobs in the crontab.xml.
- B. Set the cron jobs to run multiple times per day instead of once daily.
- C. In the execute() function, implement a lock checker to make sure the cron runs alone.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The correct solution is to create a custom cron group.

By default, Magento cron jobs run in shared groups (default, index, etc.). If a heavy/long-running job blocks the queue, other jobs in the same group may become delayed or marked as "missed." By assigning heavy processes (such as stock imports) to a dedicated group, developers ensure that the job is managed separately, avoiding conflicts.

Option B does not solve the root scheduling issue; it just increases runs.

Option C (lock checker) prevents overlaps but does not prevent the missed status caused by shared cron queue congestion.

- B. Override `ADMIN_RESOURCE` constant with a value for a custom access control list (ACL) resource.
- C. Implement `isAllowed` method from `AuthorizationInterface` and check the result for a custom access control list (ACL) resource.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 42

```
<observer name="vendor_module_customer_register_observer">
<event name="customer_register_success" instance="
Vendor\Module\Observer\CustomerRegisterSuccess" />
</observer>
```
- B. Declare in `etc/events.xml`:

```
<observer name="customer_register_success">
<event name="vendor_module_customer_register_observer" instance="
Vendor\Module\Observer\CustomerRegisterSuccess" />
</observer>
```
- C. Declare in `etc/events.xml`:

```

Vendor\Module\Observer\CustomerRegisterSuccess" />
</event>
```
