PMI Cognitive Project Management in AI CPMAI v7 - Training & Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q83-Q88):

NEW QUESTION # 83

Upper management is looking to roll out a new product and wants to see if there are any patterns and insights that can be discovered from customer data. Your team has been tasked to discover these potential patterns and structures within this data. Which type of machine learning approach would be most appropriate to pick for this problem?

- A. All would work equally well
- B. Supervised Learning
- C. Reinforcement Learning
- D. Unsupervised Learning

Answer: D

Explanation:

When the goal is to uncover hidden structures or groupings in unlabeled data, unsupervised learning-notably clustering algorithms-is the appropriate choice. CPMAI describes clustering as "an unsupervised process that partitions data into groups based on similarity" and calls for applying these methods to discover patterns in unlabeled datasets .

NEW QUESTION # 84

During CPMAI Phase IV: Model Development, which of the following is not done during this phase?

- A. Model training
- B. Model tuning
- C. Model Selection
- D. Algorithm Selection

Answer: C

Explanation:

The Phase IV: Model Development generic tasks include:

Select Modeling Technique (algorithm selection)

Generate model test design

Model Training / Model Building

Hyperparameter Optimization (model tuning)

Final Model Selection (choosing the best candidate against business criteria) is performed in Phase V: Model Evaluation, not in Phase IV .

NEW QUESTION # 85

Your team is tasked with selecting an algorithm for a supervised learning classification project. Which algorithm might you choose?

- A. K-means
- B. K-nearest neighbor
- C. Q learning
- D. Gaussian mixture

Answer: B

Explanation:

K-nearest neighbor (KNN) is a classic supervised classification algorithm that assigns a class label based on the majority label of the K closest training samples in feature space. In contrast, Gaussian Mixture Models and K-means are unsupervised clustering techniques, and Q-learning is a reinforcement-learning algorithm- not a supervised classifier .

NEW QUESTION # 86

Your team is running a forecasting project and wants to use previous user data to better predict future outcomes. However your team doesn't have access to all the data it needs. What's the best course of action?

- A. Cautiously move forward knowing you may need to pause mid-project which is ok.
- B. Move ahead as planned so you stay on time with your project.
- C. Move ahead as planned and hope you get access to the data once you need it. Since you're using an iterative approach you can always go back to steps as needed later on.
- D. Do not move forward until you have access to all the data you need.

Answer: D

Explanation:

During Phase I: Business Understanding, the Data Feasibility task explicitly mandates a Go/No-Go decision on data availability and access: "Do you have access to the data you need? If not, what do you need for access to the data? Mark as a 'NoGo.'" Projects should not proceed until all essential data access requirements are met to avoid wasted effort and unresolvable blockages down the line

NEW QUESTION # 87

You're testing your model and it is overly sensitive to the fluctuations of data and having trouble generalizing. What type of problem is this?

- A. You are underfitting the data
- B. You have selected the wrong data
- C. You are overfitting the data
- D. You have selected the wrong algorithm

Answer: C

Explanation:

Overfitting occurs when a model learns not only the underlying patterns but also the noise in the training data, causing it to perform well on seen data but poorly on unseen data. The CPMAI Glossary defines overfitting as "a modeling error where a model learns the training data too well, including its noise, resulting in poor performance on new data."
