USGBC LEED Green Associate Exam Sample Questions (Q104-Q109):

NEW QUESTION # 104

A building owner has set a goal of reducing water use by 20% for the upcoming year. Which of the following strategies will aid in reducing indoor water demand to achieve the water reduction goal set by the owner?

- A. Collecting rainwater in cisterns
- B. Installing dual-flush toilets
- C. Installing building-level water meters
- D. Using potable water for flush functions

Answer: B

Explanation:

Installing dual-flush toilets can significantly reduce indoor water demand. Dual-flush toilets have two flush options: a half flush for liquid waste and a full flush for solid waste. By using less water for liquid waste, these toilets can reduce overall water consumption by up to 30%, helping to achieve the owner's water reduction goal. NEW QUESTION # 105

Approximately what percentage of the Earth's water is fresh water?

- A. 4%
- B. 1%
- C. 3%
- D. 2%

Answer: C

Explanation:

From the Project Surroundings guide:

"Only about 3% of Earth's water is freshwater."

This limited availability emphasizes the importance of water conservation in LEED.

NEW QUESTION # 106

Installing permanent water submeters that measure the total potable water use for a building and associated grounds has which of the following benefits?

- A. Informs the selection of locally adapted plants
- B. Allows facility staff to track water consumption and identify leaks
- C. Increases on-site water retention and infiltration of rainfall into the ground
- D. Reduces the amount of water needed to support industrial and process systems

Answer: B

Explanation:

Installing permanent water submeters that measure the total potable water use for a building and associated grounds allows facility staff to track water consumption and identify leaks. This can help reduce water waste, lower utility bills, and improve water efficiency. It can also contribute to the Water Metering credit in the Water Efficiency category of LEED v4.2.

NEW QUESTION # 107

When the same team members are involved more than once in an integrated approach, it leads to

- A. a decline in systems thinking
- B. getting more LEED points
- C. a lack of new ideas
- D. users getting better at the process

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 108

Which credit category attempts to reduce light pollution and discourages the development of previously undeveloped land?

- A. Energy and Atmosphere
- B. Sustainable Sites
- C. Location and Transportation
- D. Regional Priority

Answer: B

Explanation:

The Sustainable Sites (SS) category addresses the site selection, design, construction, and operation of a project, as well as its impacts on the natural and built environment. One of the goals of this category is to reduce light pollution and discourage the development of previously undeveloped land. Light pollution is the excessive or inappropriate use of artificial lighting that can have adverse effects on human health, wildlife, ecosystems, and astronomy. Previously undeveloped land is land that has not been graded, cleared, or built upon prior to the current project and remains in a natural state. Developing previously undeveloped land can result in habitat loss, soil erosion, stormwater runoff, and increased infrastructure costs¹³.
