ASIS Physical Security Professional Exam Sample Questions (Q257-Q262):

NEW QUESTION # 257

Which of the following types of procurement is most frequently used when a customer has intimate knowledge of the requirements defined and the systems available in the market?

- A. Request for quote
- B. Sole source
- C. Invitation to bid
- D. Request for proposals

Answer: C

Explanation:

An Invitation to Bid (ITB) is typically used when the buyer has clearly defined requirements and a good understanding of the market offerings. It focuses on obtaining competitive pricing for known solutions and is suitable for well-specified projects where minimal deviation is expected.

B (Request for proposals) is used when buyer needs input on how to meet requirements.

C (Sole source) limits competition and is only used under specific conditions.

D (Request for quote) is generally used for lower-cost, commodity items.

NEW QUESTION # 258

The concept of _____ arises from agency law in which one party has the power to control the actions of another party involved in the contract or relationship.

- A. Passive liability
- B. Active liability
- C. Vicarious liability
- D. Compliance liability

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 259

What can be used as servers and do not require special installation?

- A. Supercomputers
- B. None of the above
- C. Minicomputers
- D. Workstations

Answer: D

Explanation:

Workstations can serve as basic servers in small networks. While they are typically used for individual tasks, they can be configured to act as servers for file sharing, printing, or hosting lightweight applications without needing specialized installation or infrastructure.

Minicomputers (B) are outdated mid-range systems.

Supercomputers (C) are specialized, high-cost systems for massive computations, not typical servers.

"None of the above" (D) is incorrect because workstations can indeed be used as servers.
