NEW QUESTION # 135

The administrator at Universal Containers does a soft launch of the Salesforce Authenticator app and allows users to optionally use it to log In. The administrator would now like to look at how many users have successfully used it since It was rolled out.

What are two ways the administrator can get this Information?

Choose 2 answers

- A. Export Login History and filter based off of Authentication Method Reference,
- B. Run a session setting report, specifying login methods by user.
- C. Open the Login Access Policies In Setup which shows how many users are using MFA.
- D. Create a new view In Identity Verification History, specifying Method.

Answer: A,D

Explanation:

Salesforce Authenticator is an app that adds an extra layer of security for logging into Salesforce by requiring users to verify their identity using their mobile device after entering their username and password on Salesforce login page. To see how many users have successfully used Salesforce Authenticator since it was rolled out, an administrator can use two methods:

A) Create a new view In Identity Verification History, specifying Method.

Identity Verification History is a tool that shows information about each identity verification event for users in your org, such as the date and time, the verification method used, the IP address, and the status of the verification. By creating a new view in Identity Verification History and specifying the method as Salesforce Authenticator, an administrator can see how many users have used the app to verify their identity when logging in. Login History is a tool that shows information about each login attempt for users in your org, such as the date and time, the username, the source IP address, the login type, and the status of the login. By exporting Login History as a CSV file and filtering based on the Authentication Method Reference column, an administrator can see how many users have used Salesforce Authenticator as their authentication method when logging in.
