NEW QUESTION # 120

SWA and SWB run RSTP. Which of the following statements are true?

- A. G0/0/3 of SWB is an alternate port.
- B. G0/0/3 of SWA is a designated port.
- C. G0/0/2 of SWA is a designated port.
- D. G0/0/3 of SWB is a backup port.

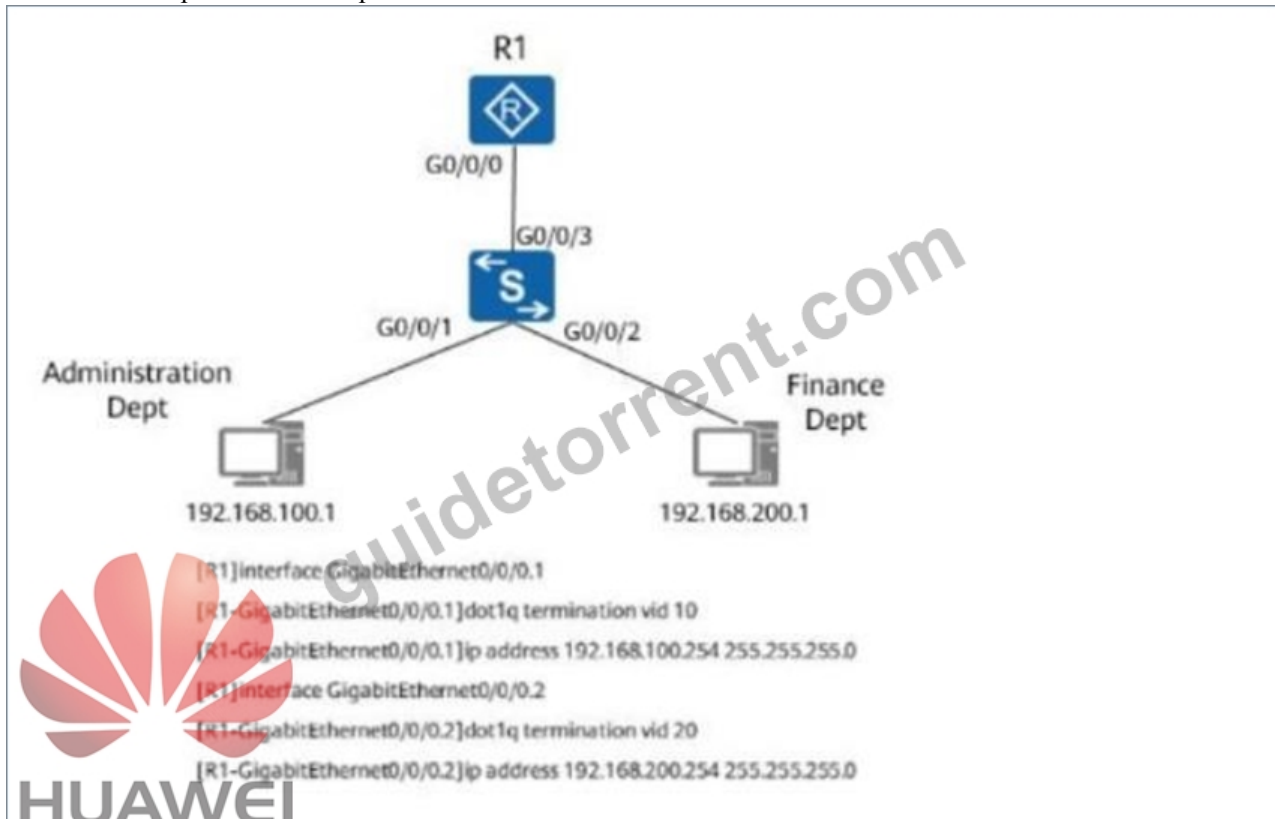

Answer: A,B,C

Explanation:

Comprehensive Explanation: In RSTP (Rapid Spanning Tree Protocol), G0/0/3 of SWB is an Alternate Port because it provides a redundant path to the root bridge, while G0/0/3 of SWA is a Designated Port, forwarding traffic away from the root bridge. Similarly, G0/0/2 of SWA is also a Designated Port because it forwards traffic to other segments of the network. Alternate Ports are used to provide backup paths, while Designated Ports are the forwarding ports on a given segment.

NEW QUESTION # 121

According to the one-armed routing configurations shown in the figure, even if ARP proxy is disabled on the sub-interface of R1, the Administration Dept and Finance Dept can still communicate with each other.

- A. FALSE
- B. TRUE

Answer: B

Explanation:

Detailed Explanation: In a "one-armed routing" setup, a router with sub-interfaces can handle inter-VLAN routing by logically segmenting traffic within a single physical interface. In this configuration, each department (Administration and Finance) is assigned a different VLAN with separate sub-interfaces on Router R1.

In such a setup, communication between different VLANs (i.e., inter-VLAN routing) is handled by the router, even without Proxy ARP enabled. The router can directly route packets between the VLANs as it is aware of the different networks and performs Layer 3 forwarding based on the IP address of each VLAN's sub-interface.

Thus, even if ARP Proxy is disabled, devices in the Administration and Finance departments can communicate through the router because inter-VLAN routing takes place at Layer 3 without relying on ARP proxy functionality.
