VMware Cloud Foundation 9.0 Administrator Sample Questions (Q37-Q42):

NEW QUESTION # 37

In VMware storage design for a vSphere environment, which of the following are commonly used datastore types?

- A. CIFS shares for hosting VM disks
- B. NFS datastores over IP network
- C. vSAN datastores across cluster nodes
- D. VMFS datastores on block storage

Answer: B,C,D

Explanation:

VMware supports VMFS (on block storage), NFS (file-based), and vSAN (distributed storage). CIFS (option C) is typically not used to host VMware virtual disks.

NEW QUESTION # 38

An organization is looking to streamline its IT service delivery by automating the deployment of applications and infrastructure across its hybrid cloud environment.

Which VMware Aria Suite component should they use?

- A. Aria Operations
- B. Aria Operations for Logs
- C. Aria Operations for Networks
- D. Aria Automation

Answer: D

Explanation:

Aria Automation (formerly vRealize Automation) is designed to automate the deployment of applications and infrastructure across hybrid cloud environments. It enables the provisioning, management, and orchestration of IT services, helping organizations streamline their service delivery.

NEW QUESTION # 39

Which vSphere component is essential for providing persistent storage to Kubernetes workloads deployed on IaaS Control Plane?

- A. vSAN
- B. Pod Service
- C. Control Plane Storage Policy
- D. Container Image Virtual Disks

Answer: B

Explanation:

The vSphere Pod Service is essential for providing persistent storage to Kubernetes workloads deployed on IaaS Control Plane (formerly vSphere with Tanzu). It enables the integration of Kubernetes with vSphere, allowing the creation of persistent volumes and the management of storage resources for Kubernetes workloads, ensuring that they can utilize vSphere's storage capabilities like vSAN.

NEW QUESTION # 40

Which step should an administrator take to optimize memory usage in a VM environment running multiple Windows Server VMs?

- A. Set large CPU reservations in Resource Pools
- B. Disable Transparent Page Sharing (TPS) on all hosts
- C. Enable vSphere Replication for each VM
- D. Configure the Memory Ballooning driver within the guest OS

Answer: D

Explanation:

Memory Ballooning allows the hypervisor to reclaim unused guest OS memory. TPS is typically enabled by default. Replication and large CPU reservations won't directly optimize memory usage.

NEW QUESTION # 41

An administrator is tasked to monitor business-critical Virtual Machines (VMs) within a VMware Cloud Foundation (VCF) fleet.

The following requirements must be met:

- The existing policy named "Organization Policy" must be used for the entire environment.

- Only business-critical VMs must be assigned additional metrics.
 - Business-critical VMs will be organized based on a naming schema.
- Which three steps must an administrator complete to satisfy the requirements? (Choose three.)

- A. Create a Custom Datacenter and add the business-critical VMs.
- B. Assign the Custom Datacenter to the new policy.
- C. Create a Custom Group and add the business-critical VMs.
- D. Assign the Custom Group to the new policy.
- E. Create a new policy under "Base Settings" and enable the additional metrics.
- F. Create a new policy under "Organization Policy" and enable the additional metrics.

Answer: C,D,F

Explanation:

Create a child policy under the existing Organization Policy (C): Policies can inherit settings from parent policies. By creating a child policy under Organization Policy, administrators can apply additional metrics without overriding global policies.

Create a Custom Group (F): Custom Groups allow dynamic membership based on naming conventions or criteria. In this case, business-critical VMs can be grouped automatically by naming schema.

Assign the Custom Group to the new child policy (B): This ensures that the additional metrics only apply to the business-critical VMs in the Custom Group.
