VMware Cloud Foundation 9.0 Architect Sample Questions (Q55-Q60):

NEW QUESTION # 55

During the design workshop, the customer stated the following requirement:

* The solution must comply with the organization's security standards.

Which two design decisions should be included in the logical design for the workload domain? (Choose two.)

- A. Use large-size NSX Edge virtual appliances to account for the additional firewall rules.
- B. Use an SHA-2 algorithm or higher when signing certificates.
- C. Enable VM Monitoring for each workload within the cluster.
- D. Establish an operations practice to capture and update the thumbprint of the NSX Local Manager certificate on the NSX Global Manager every time the certificate is updated.
- E. Enable Inter-SR iBGP routing.

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

* SHA-2 or higher certificate signing ensures cryptographic compliance with modern security standards.

* Maintaining updated certificate thumbprints is a crucial operational security task to prevent man-in-the-middle attacks between NSX managers.

These measures directly align with security hardening guidance outlined in the VCF design practices.

NEW QUESTION # 56

An architect is responsible for the design of a VMware Cloud Foundation (VCF) Fleet and the following risk has been identified:

* RISK001: There is a risk that frequent infrastructure design changes may break Disaster Recovery (DR) plans and Service Level Objectives.

What should the architect suggest to mitigate this risk?

- A. Limit infrastructure design change frequency to a maximum of once a month.
- B. Develop a process to review and update DR plans between changes and schedule monthly end-to-end DR tests.
- C. Configure VM replication with recovery point objective of 5 minutes or less for all workloads from the primary to DR site.
- D. Setup monitoring & alerting against defined infrastructure service level objectives.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation (Based on VMware Cloud Foundation 9.0.3 and 9.0.1 Guides):

The VMware Cloud Foundation 9.0.3 Disaster Recovery Planning Guide emphasizes that testing and validation of DR plans must occur regularly and whenever infrastructure changes are made. It states:

"You can perform test runs periodically to ensure the existing disaster recovery plan works with underlying infrastructure and the configured RPO limit. VMware Live Recovery recommends users perform planned migration at regular intervals to validate the integrity of the existing DR plan." Additionally, the VCF 9.0.1 Design Blueprints specify that a well-defined process for reviewing and updating DR documentation between changes ensures continuity and compliance with defined Service Level Objectives (SLOs). Thus, the correct mitigation action is to establish a structured change management process that includes DR plan updates and monthly end-to-end validation tests. Simply limiting change frequency (option C) or setting replication intervals (option D) does not ensure DR plan integrity.

NEW QUESTION # 57

What actions are important when troubleshooting network slowness in VMware environments using Broadcom 10GbE Ethernet adapters?

- A. Verify NIC team settings
- B. Check for network congestion
- C. Enable Jumbo Frames
- D. Disable 10GbE adapter features

Answer: A,B,C

Explanation:

Checking for congestion, verifying NIC team settings, and enabling Jumbo Frames are essential troubleshooting steps.

NEW QUESTION # 58

Which VMware Cloud Foundation features improve network security and segmentation?

- A. VMware vSAN
- B. VMware vSphere
- C. VMware NSX
- D. VMware vRealize Automation

Answer: C

Explanation:

VMware NSX is the primary feature for improving network security and segmentation in VMware Cloud Foundation.

NEW QUESTION # 59

What are the key steps for optimizing VMware storage performance in Broadcom environments?

- A. Ensure proper RAID configuration
- B. Monitor storage IOPS
- C. Use NVMe SSDs for datastores
- D. Optimize network connectivity

Answer: A,B,C

Explanation:

Proper RAID setup, NVMe SSDs, monitoring IOPS, and optimizing network connectivity help enhance storage performance.
