NEW QUESTION # 817

An OSPF AS-external LSA describes a route to an AS external network.

When the field in the LSA is 0.0.0.0, the traffic destined for the external network is sent to the ASBR that imports this external route. (Enter the acronym in uppercase.)

Answer:

Explanation:
NSSA

Explanation:

An OSPF AS-external LSA is used to describe routes to networks that are external to the OSPF Autonomous System (AS). This external route information is typically imported into OSPF by an Autonomous System Boundary Router (ASBR).

If the Forwarding Address field in the AS-external LSA is set to 0.0.0.0, this indicates that traffic destined for the external network should be forwarded directly to the ASBR that advertised the external route.

The specific context mentioned here relates to the Not-So-Stubby Area (NSSA), a type of OSPF area designed to handle AS-external routes in a more controlled way. In NSSAs:

Type 7 LSAs are used to describe AS-external routes.

The ASBR within the NSSA converts the Type 7 LSA to a Type 5 LSA before advertising it to the backbone area.

Hence, the correct acronym for the described functionality is NSSA.

NEW QUESTION # 819

See the network shown in the following figure.

R1 and R2 run IS-IS and establish an adjacency. IS-IS is enabled on Loopback0 of R2 but disabled on Loopback3 of R2. The configurations shown in the figure are performed in the IS-IS process of R2. Which of the following statements are true?

- A. The routing table of R1 does not contain the routes 10.0.2.2/32 and 10.0.2.3/32.

- B. The routing table of R1 contains the route 10.0.2.3/32.
- C. The routing table of R1 does not contain the route 10.0.2.3/32.
- D. The routing table of R1 contains the route 10.0.2.2/32.

Answer: C,D

Explanation:

In the provided configuration, IS-IS is enabled on Loopback0 but not on Loopback3 of R2. As a result, R2 will advertise the route 10.0.2.2/32 (from Loopback0) to R1 through IS-IS. However, the route 10.0.2.3/32 will not be advertised because IS-IS is not enabled on that loopback interface. The `import-route direct` command does not override this behavior.
