NEW QUESTION # 32

Which of the following statements is false about Huawei's rail transportation wireless backhaul solution?

- A. The handover delay can be as low as 30 ms.
- B. Video backhaul is supported when a train is traveling at 160 km/h.
- C. Highly reliable active-active links are available.
- D. The solution can be used to carry the train signal system.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Huawei's wireless backhaul solution for rail transportation supports applications such as video surveillance, train-to-ground communication, and infotainment systems. However, it is explicitly stated in Huawei documentation that this solution is not designed for or certified to carry the safety-critical train signaling systems, which typically require dedicated and highly regulated communication networks.

Options A, C, and D are true and backed by Huawei's performance claims:
Handover delay can reach as low as 30 ms using dual-link active-active design.
Video backhaul is maintained even at speeds up to 160 km/h.

NEW QUESTION # 33

In the NAC solution, which of the following authentication modes does not require users to install any client software and is applicable to scenarios where dumb terminals such as IP phones and printers need to access the network?

- A. 802.1X authentication
- B. MAC address authentication
- C. Wireless authentication
- D. Portal authentication

Answer: B

Explanation:

MAC address authentication (also known as MAC bypass authentication) is typically used for non-intelligent endpoints such as printers, IP phones, and IoT devices that cannot run client software or access a portal for login.

The authentication process is completed by identifying the device's MAC address and mapping it to predefined policies in the NAC system.

It does not require client installation or human interaction - making it ideal for "dumb terminals." By contrast, 802.1X and portal authentication require software clients or web-based logins and are designed for user-driven authentication.

- C. Gateway migration: Migrate north-south gateways from the legacy network to the new network.
