Huawei HCSA-Sales-Transmission & Access V2.0 Sample Questions (Q72-Q77):

NEW QUESTION # 72

All ODN parts in POL are passive optical components?

- A. FALSE
- B. TRUE

Answer: B

Explanation:

In a Passive Optical LAN (POL), the Optical Distribution Network (ODN) consists entirely of passive optical components such as splitters, connectors, and fibers. These components do not require external power, making them fully passive.

The ODN in POL follows Point-to-Multipoint (P2MP) architecture using passive splitters, ensuring signal distribution without electrical conversion. Since no active components are present in the ODN, it remains maintenance-free and energy-efficient.

NEW QUESTION # 73

DC908 key feature: Capacity is 47% higher than the industry average, the power consumption is 35% lower than the industry average.

- A. FALSE
- B. TRUE

Answer: B

Explanation:

The OptiXtrans DC908's specifications in HCSA-Sales-Transmission & Access highlight:

Capacity 47% higher: DC908's 88T/fiber exceeds the industry average (around 60T/fiber), a ~47% increase, as derived from documented comparisons.

Power consumption 35% lower: At 0.13 W/G vs. the industry's 0.2 W/G, it achieves a 35% reduction.

Both claims align with DC908's key features, making the statement TRUE.

NEW QUESTION # 74

DC908 support SCC 1+1 redundancy.

- A. TRUE
- B. FALSE

Answer: B

Explanation:

The DC908 does not explicitly support SCC (System Control Card) 1+1 redundancy, per HCSA-Sales-Transmission & Access. While it offers hardware reliability, SCC redundancy is more associated with OLTs (e.g., EA5800), not DCI-focused DC908, making the statement FALSE.

NEW QUESTION # 75

Which of the following services are supported by the Campus OptiX solution?

- A. All of the above
- B. Telephone
- C. Internet
- D. Wi-Fi
- E. TV

Answer: A

Explanation:

Huawei's Campus OptiX solution is a multi-service network capable of delivering all major digital services over a single optical fiber infrastructure:

#Internet - High-speed broadband access via fiber. #Telephone - Supports traditional POTS and VoIP services.

#Wi-Fi - Provides fiber backhaul for wireless access points (APs). #TV (IPTV & CATV) - Distributes video services efficiently over the same network.

Since Campus OptiX can handle all these services, the correct answer is E (All of the above).

NEW QUESTION # 76

Which of the following are highlights of Ultra broadband & High Integration?

- A. Hybrid photoelectric integration
- B. 9.6T/2U
- C. 100G~800Gbit@per X
- D. Hardware redundancy

Answer: A,B,C

Explanation:

The highlights of "Ultra broadband & High Integration" pertain to Huawei's advanced transmission solutions, such as the OptiXtrans DC908, designed for DCI scenarios. According to HCSA-Sales-Transmission & Access materials:

Hybrid photoelectric integration (B): This feature integrates optical and electrical components, reducing complexity and improving efficiency, a hallmark of Huawei's high-integration designs.

9.6T/2U (C): The DC908 delivers an industry-leading capacity of 9.6 terabits per second in a compact 2U form factor, emphasizing ultra-broadband capability and space efficiency.

100G~800Gbit@per X (D): This refers to the flexible, scalable bandwidth per port (ranging from 100G to 800G), a key feature for ultra-broadband applications in DCI.

Hardware redundancy (A): While important for reliability, it is not specifically highlighted under "Ultra broadband & High Integration" but rather under stability or resilience features.

Thus, B, C, and D are the verified highlights.
