NEW QUESTION # 67

What is a significant risk associated with using LLMs?

- A. Potential biases in generated content
- B. Inability to generate text in multiple languages
- C. Unlimited processing power usage without cost control
- D. Complete elimination of human oversight in content creation

Answer: A

Explanation:

A significant risk of using LLMs is the potential for biases in generated content, stemming from biases present in their training data. Option A is incorrect because LLMs do not inherently eliminate human oversight; oversight is often maintained, especially in enterprise settings like SAP's. Option B is false as LLMs can generate text in multiple languages, as seen with models like GPT-4. Option D, while a concern in terms of resource management, is not the most significant risk compared to bias, and cost control can be implemented. Option C is correct because biased outputs can lead to unfair decisions or misinformation, a risk SAP mitigates through its AI Ethics framework, which includes principles like avoiding bias and discrimination, ensuring responsible AI deployment.
