Fortinet FCP - FortiManager 7.4 Administrator Sample Questions (Q18-Q23):

NEW QUESTION # 18

When using the FortiManager JSON API, what is the purpose of the session ID received after successful authentication?

- A. It includes a hash to check the integrity of the JSON response sent by FortiManager.
- B. It serves as an authentication token for subsequent API requests.
- C. It is used to identify the FortiManager metadata on the client.
- D. It contains information about the HTTP request method used.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 19

Exhibit.

Given the configuration shown in the exhibit, which two statements are true? (Choose two.)

- A. FortiManager is in workflow mode.
- B. The FortiManager ADOM is locked by the administrator.
- C. The FortiManager ADOM workspace mode is set to Normal
- D. An administrator can also lock the Local-FortiGate_root policy package.

Answer: A,B

Explanation:

The provided screenshot from FortiManager shows several key elements that help answer the question:

* The padlock icon next to the "Remote-FortiGate" policy package indicates that this policy package is locked, which means it is currently being edited or has been checked out by an administrator. This is typical behavior when the ADOM (Administrative Domain) workspace is in use, and a session is active where an administrator is working on a policy package.

* The absence of a lock icon next to "Local-FortiGate_root" and "default" indicates that these policy packages are not locked and are available for editing.

* Statement B (FortiManager is in workflow mode): This is true. The fact that one of the policy packages is locked suggests that FortiManager is operating in ADOM workflow mode or at least in a state where it enforces locking for editing, typically seen in Normal ADOM modes. In workflow mode, an administrator needs to lock a workspace before making changes.

* Statement C(The FortiManager ADOM is locked by the administrator): This is true. The presence of the padlock on "Remote-FortiGate" signifies that the ADOM, or more specifically, this policy package within the ADOM, has been locked by the administrator.

* Statement A(An administrator can also lock the Local-FortiGate_root policy package): This is not necessarily true. The administrator can lock the "Local-FortiGate_root" policy package, but as shown in the exhibit, it is currently not locked, so this option is not a certainty in this state.

* Statement D(The FortiManager ADOM workspace mode is set to Normal): This is true, but not the best option compared to B and C, as it can be inferred that the mode is set to Normal due to the locking behavior, but the more direct information is about the ADOM being locked by an administrator.

NEW QUESTION # 20

Which configuration setting for FortiGate is part of an ADOM-level database on FortiManager?

- A. Security profiles
- B. Routing
- C. SNMP
- D. NSX-T Service Template

Answer: A

Explanation:

Security profiles are part of the ADOM-level database in FortiManager. These configurations allow for centralized management of security settings like antivirus, web filtering, application control, and intrusion prevention. Security profiles are created and managed under the Policy & Objects section, which operates at the ADOM level.

NEW QUESTION # 21

An administrator created a new ADOM named Training for FortiGate devices only, and added the root FortiGate device of a Security Fabric group to the Training ADOM.

Given the administrator's actions, which statement correctly describes the expected result for the downstream devices in the Security Fabric?

- A. The downstream devices must be added using the Add Device wizard.
- B. The downstream devices will appear in the root ADOM.
- C. The downstream devices are automatically authorized.
- D. The downstream devices show as unauthorized in the Training ADOM.

Answer: D

Explanation:

All downstream FortiGate in the sec fabric group will be added in unauthorized devices group in the same ADOM as the root.

NEW QUESTION # 22

Which two items are included in the FortiManager backup? (Choose two.)

- A. Firmware images
- B. All devices
- C. FortiGuard database
- D. Flash configuration

Answer: B,D
