NEW QUESTION # 104
As a next-generation storage system, Huawei OceanStor Dorado series can focus on core enterprise services and meet enterprises' service requirements. Which of the following statements are false about Huawei OceanStor Dorado series storage systems?

- A. The back-end shared interface module of OceanStor Dorado 18000 is inserted into the enclosure.
  The disk enclosure connected to the interface module can be accessed by controllers in the engine at the same time.
- B. Dorado V6 series and new converged storage products use the PCIe Scale-Out architecture.
- C. OceanStor Dorado 18000 supports a maximum of 28 interface modules and implements intra- engine mirroring and cross-engine interconnection through the 100 Gbit/s RDMA network.
- D. OceanStor Dorado 18000 uses 200 Gbit/s RDMA shared interface modules for cross-engine expansion, implementing full interconnection between 8, 12, and 16 controllers.

Answer: D

Explanation:
This question tests knowledge of the Huawei OceanStor Dorado series architecture, as covered in the HCIP-Storage V5.5 Training Material (Module 2: Flash Storage Technologies). Let's evaluate each option:
- Option A: True. The material confirms: "The back-end shared interface module of OceanStor Dorado 18000 is inserted into the enclosure, allowing simultaneous access to disk enclosures by all controllers in the engine."
- Option B: True. The material states: "Dorado V6 series and converged storage products adopt the PCIe Scale-Out architecture for high-performance interconnects."
- Option C: False. The material specifies: "OceanStor Dorado 18000 uses 100 Gbit/s RDMA shared interface modules for cross-engine expansion, supporting full interconnection between 8, 12, and 16 controllers." The claim of 200 Gbit/s RDMA is incorrect, as 100 Gbit/s is the standard for Dorado 18000.
- Option D: True. The material notes: "OceanStor Dorado 18000 supports up to 28 interface modules and uses a 100 Gbit/s RDMA network for intra-engine mirroring and cross-engine interconnection." Thus, option C is false due to the incorrect RDMA speed.

NEW QUESTION # 105

When delivering a flash storage project, Huawei engineers introduced the arbitration mechanism of HyperMetro to the customer. Which of the following statements is false about the arbitration modes?

- A. In static priority mode, if the preferred site of a HyperMetro pair breaks down, the non-preferred site does not automatically take over HyperMetro services. As a result, the services stop, and the customer must forcibly start the services at the non-preferred site.
- B. In quorum server mode, the quorum server can be deployed only on physical machines and not on virtual machines.
- C. In quorum server mode, if the link between storage systems is down, each storage system sends an arbitration request to the quorum server.
- D. If no quorum server is configured, HyperMetro works in static priority mode. When an arbitration occurs, the preferred site wins the arbitration and provides services.

Answer: B

Explanation:
The HyperMetro feature in Huawei storage systems, such as OceanStor Dorado, provides active-active data access with arbitration mechanisms to handle site failures. The HCIP-Storage V5.5 Training Material (Module 4: Storage Design and Implementation) details HyperMetro arbitration modes:
- Option A: True. The material states: "In the absence of a quorum server, HyperMetro operates in static priority mode, where the preferred site is designated to win arbitration and continue services during a failure."
- Option B: True. The material explains: "In static priority mode, if the preferred site fails, the non-preferred site does not automatically take over to avoid split-brain scenarios. Services stop, and manual intervention is required to forcibly start services on the non-preferred site."
- Option C: False. The material clarifies: "In quorum server mode, the quorum server can be deployed on physical machines or virtual machines, provided it meets the performance and network requirements." This makes the statement that it can only be deployed on physical machines incorrect.
- Option D: True. The material confirms: "In quorum server mode, if the link between storage systems fails, both systems send arbitration requests to the quorum server to determine which site continues providing services." Thus, option C is false.
