Nutanix Certified Professional - Unified Storage v6.5 Sample Questions (Q43-Q48):

NEW QUESTION # 43

A two-VM Oracle RAC cluster was recently configured with Linux Red Hat using a Nutanix Volume Group. At the time Of performing the failover tests Of simulating a failure in each Of the three Nutanix cluster nodes, the cluster administrator noticed that the virtual machines Of the RAC cluster do not come up and the failover fails.

The administrator must to follow the best practices from Nutanix to construct the RAC cluster using AHV.

What should the administrator Verify in the Steps performed to configure the RAC cluster to prevent this situation from occurring again?

- A. Change the disk timeout to 60 (default 30) in the disk parameters for each linux device
- B. In the step for attach the volume group to the RAC VMs, he must create it with an attribute of shared = true
- C. VM-host affinity rules Can be Set up for RAC VMS to define where they Can run within the cluster
- D. use Antiaffinity rules to prevent multiple Oracle RAC nodes in the same RAC cluster from running on same Nutanix node

Answer: B

Explanation:

Nutanix volume groups are collections of vDisks that can be exposed to virtual machines or physical hosts using iSCSI protocol.

Nutanix volume groups have a shared attribute that allows multiple VMs to access them concurrently.

In the step for attach the volume group to the RAC VMs, he must create it with an attribute of shared = true. This is because if the volume group is not created with shared = true, then only one VM can access it at a time, which would prevent Oracle RAC from working properly.

NEW QUESTION # 44

What are two ways to manage Objects? (Choose two.)

- A. SSH
- B. API
- C. PC
- D. CLI

Answer: B,C

NEW QUESTION # 45

During a recent audit, the auditors discovered several shares that were unencrypted. To remediate the audit item, the administrator enabled Encrypt SMB3 Messages on the accounting, finance, and facilities shares. After encryption was enabled, several users have reported that they are no longer able to access the shares.

What is causing this issue?

- A. The users are accessing the shares from Windows 8 desktops.
- B. Advanced Encryption Standard 128 & 256 are disabled in Linux or Mac OS.
- C. Advanced Encryption Standard 128 & 256 are disabled in Windows 7.
- D. The users are accessing the shares from Linux desktops.

Answer: D

Explanation:

According to Encryption-Files | Nutanix Community¹, SMB3 message encryption is a feature that encrypts messages on the file server side and decrypts them on the client side. However, clients that do not support encryption (Linux, Mac, windows 7) cannot access a share with encryption enabled.

According to Nutanix Support & Insights², Nutanix Files supports SMB3 encryption for SMB3 client-server traffic. This means that only clients that support SMB3 protocol can access encrypted shares.

Therefore, if the users are accessing the shares from Linux desktops, they will not be able to access them because Linux does not support SMB3 encryption.

NEW QUESTION # 46

How many configure snapshots are supported for SSR in a file server?

- A. 0
- B. 1
- C. 2
- D. 3

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 47

An administrator has received multiple trouble tickets from users who are unable to access a particular Distributed share.

While troubleshooting, the administrator observes that data located on FSVM 3 can be accessed, but the data located on FSVMs 1 and 2 is inaccessible. The administrator receives this message when attempting to access data on FSVMs 1 and 2:

Network object not found

Both FSVM 1 and 2 nodes successfully reply to pings, and the administrator is able to access data via the node IP.

What must the administrator check as a next step?

- A. Check if user permissions are configured correctly.
- B. Check if `keberos_time_skew` is logged on the client.
- C. Check if all DNS records are created on the DNS server.
- D. Check if `SM3v1` is enabled on FSVM node 1 and 2.

Answer: C

Explanation:

According to Nutanix Support & Insights¹, a distributed share is a type of SMB share that distributes the hosting of top-level directories across FSVMs. To access a distributed share, you need to use a DNS name that resolves to all FSVMs in the cluster. If some DNS records are missing or incorrect, then some FSVMs may not be reachable by their DNS name, resulting in the network object not found error. This could explain why data located on FSVM 3 can be accessed, but data located on FSVMs 1 and 2 is inaccessible.
