USGBC LEED Green Associate Exam Sample Questions (Q183-Q188):

NEW QUESTION # 183

Which third party certification is recommended to use when specifying sustainable cleaning products?

- A. Greenguard"
- B. Green Seal™
- C. Design for the Environment
- D. Green Label Plus*

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation

Green Seal is a third-party certification program that evaluates the environmental impacts of cleaning products and services. It has standards for various categories of products, such as cleaners, paper products, hand soaps, and floor care. Green Seal certified products meet rigorous performance, health, and environmental criteria.

By using Green Seal certified products, projects can reduce the exposure of building occupants and maintenance personnel to potentially harmful chemicals, improve indoor air quality, and support sustainable purchasing practices. NEW QUESTION # 184

If a project has achieved 53 points and six of eight prerequisites, for what level of certification does the project qualify?

- A. Gold
- B. Certified
- C. None
- D. Silver

Answer: C

Explanation:

To qualify for any level of LEED certification, a project must meet all the prerequisites and achieve a minimum number of points based on the rating system and the certification level¹. The prerequisites are mandatory requirements that must be met before a project can earn any points². The points are awarded for achieving optional credits that demonstrate environmental performance and innovation². The LEED rating system consists of five broad categories: Building Design and Construction (BD+C), Interior Design and Construction (ID+C), Building Operations and Maintenance (O+M), Neighborhood Development (ND), and Homes³. Each category has different adaptations for specific project types and scopes, such as Schools, Retail, Hospitality, Data Centers, Warehouses and Distribution Centers, Healthcare, etc³. Each adaptation has a different number of prerequisites and credits, and a different point scale for each certification level⁴. The certification levels are: Certified, Silver, Gold, and Platinum¹. The minimum points required for each level vary depending on the rating system and the adaptation, but generally range from 40 to 80 points¹. In this question, the project has achieved 53 points and six of eight prerequisites. This means that the project has failed to meet two prerequisites, which are mandatory requirements. Therefore, the project does not qualify for any level of LEED certification, regardless of the rating system or the adaptation. The answer is A. None.

NEW QUESTION # 185

A wood product that is certified by the Forest Stewardship Council (FSC) is guaranteed to be

- A. grown in a tropical forest
- B. packaged with environmentally friendly materials
- C. purchased from a LEED AP
- D. harvested from a well-managed source

Answer: D

Explanation:

The Forest Stewardship Council (FSC) is an independent, non-governmental organization that promotes responsible management of the world's forests. FSC sets standards for forest management that ensure environmental, social, and economic benefits for present and future generations. FSC also certifies forest products that meet its standards through a chain of custody system that tracks the origin and processing of the products. A wood product that is certified by FSC is guaranteed to be harvested from a well-managed source that protects biodiversity, respects indigenous rights, maintains forest productivity, and supports local communities¹.
