NEW QUESTION # 1098

Which of the following provides the MOST helpful reference point when communicating the results of a risk assessment to stakeholders?

- A. Risk awareness
- B. Risk appetite
- C. Risk tolerance
- D. Risk policy

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 1099

Which of the following should be the MAIN consideration when validating an organization's risk appetite?

- A. Comparison against regulations
- B. Maturity of the risk culture
- C. Cost of risk mitigation options
- D. Capacity to withstand loss

Answer: D

Explanation:

According to the Gaining the competitive edge - measuring and assessing an organization's risk culture article, risk appetite is the amount and type of risk that an organization is willing to accept in pursuit of its objectives. Risk appetite should be aligned with the organization's strategy, goals, and values, and should reflect the organization's risk culture and capabilities. One of the main considerations when validating an organization's risk appetite is the capacity to withstand loss, which is the ability of the organization to absorb the impact of adverse events without jeopardizing its viability or reputation. The capacity to withstand loss depends on various factors, such as the financial strength, the operational resilience, the governance structure, and the stakeholder expectations of the organization. By assessing the capacity to withstand loss, the organization can determine if its risk appetite is realistic and appropriate, or if it needs to be adjusted to match its risk profile and environment. NEW QUESTION # 1100

You work as a Project Manager for Company Inc. You have to conduct the risk management activities for a project. Which of the following inputs will you use in the plan risk management process?

Each correct answer represents a complete solution. Choose all that apply.

- A. Quality management plan
- B. Cost management plan
- C. Explanation:

The inputs to the plan risk management process are as follows:

Project scope statement: It provides a clear sense of the range of possibilities associated with the project and establishes the framework for how significant the risk management effort may become.

Cost management plan: It describes how risk budgets, contingencies, and management reserves will be reported and accessed.

Schedule management plan: It describes how the schedule contingencies will be reported and assessed.

Communication management plan: It describes the interactions, which occurs on the project and determines who will be available to share information on various risks and responses at different times.

Enterprise environmental factors: It include, but are not limited to, risk attitudes and tolerances that describe the degree of risk that an organization withstand.

Organizational process assets: It includes, but are not limited to, risk categories, risk statement formats, standard templates, roles and responsibilities, authority levels for decision-making, lessons learned, and stakeholder registers.

- D. Schedule management plan
- E. Project scope statement

Answer: B,C,D,E

Explanation:

is incorrect. It is not an input for Plan risk management process.

NEW QUESTION # 1101

Which of the following key risk indicators (KRIs) is MOST effective for monitoring risk related to a bring your own device (BYOD) program?

- A. Number of incidents originating from BYOD devices
- B. Number of devices enrolled in the BYOD program
- C. Budget allocated to the BYOD program security controls
- D. Number of users who have signed a BYOD acceptable use policy

Answer: A

Explanation:

The most effective key risk indicator (KRI) for monitoring risk related to a bring your own device (BYOD) program is the number of incidents originating from BYOD devices, as it directly measures the impact and frequency of the potential threats and vulnerabilities associated with the use of personal devices for accessing company data and systems. A BYOD program can pose various risks to an organization, such as data loss or breach, malware infection, unauthorized access, compliance violation, or device theft or loss¹². The number of incidents originating from BYOD devices can help to identify and quantify these risks, and to trigger appropriate risk response actions when the incidents exceed the acceptable thresholds. The other options are not the most effective KRIs, as they do not directly measure the risk level or impact of the BYOD program. The number of users who have signed a BYOD acceptable use policy may indicate the awareness and compliance of the users, but not the actual risk exposure or mitigation. The budget allocated to the BYOD program security controls may indicate the investment and efficiency of the risk management, but not the effectiveness or necessity. The number of devices enrolled in the BYOD program may indicate the scope and scale of the risk, but not the severity or likelihood.
