Answer: A,C

NEW QUESTION # 123

What are three examples of incident response? (Choose three.)

- A. Collecting data from computer media
- B. Analyzing a system
- C. Dealing with systems that are suspected to be used to commit a crime
- D. Threat Modeling
- E. Dealing with systems suspected to be the victim of a crime

Answer: A,C,E

Explanation:

Dealing with systems that are suspected to be used to commit a crime: Incident response involves addressing systems that may be involved in criminal activity, helping to contain and investigate the incident.

Collecting data from computer media: This is a key part of the evidence-gathering phase of incident response, where forensic data is collected to understand the extent of the incident.

Dealing with systems suspected to be the victim of a crime: Incident response includes handling systems that are compromised or victims of a crime to prevent further damage and to restore security.

NEW QUESTION # 124

Which approach to cybersecurity involves a series of defensive mechanisms that are layered to protect valuable data and information?

- A. Tiered security
- B. Endpoint detection and response
- C. Defense in depth
- D. Network segmentation

Answer: C

Explanation:

Defense in depth is a cybersecurity strategy that uses multiple layers of security controls and measures to protect data and systems. This layered approach ensures that if one security measure is bypassed, others will still provide protection, making it more difficult for attackers to succeed.

NEW QUESTION # 125

A system administrator has been tasked with developing highly detailed instructions for patching managed assets using the corporate patch management solution. These instructions are an example of which of the following?

- A. Standard
- B. Process
- C. Policy
