To modify and update the disaster recovery plan according to the lessons learned from previous disaster recovery efforts

To increase the level of the organization's disaster recovery preparedness by conducting mock drills, regular DR systems testing, and threat analysis to create awareness among various stakeholders of the organization by conducting training and awareness sessions

NEW QUESTION # 705

A company has the right to monitor the activities of their employees on different information systems according to the _____ policy.

- A. Confidential data
- B. User access control
- C. Internet usage
- D. Information system

Answer: B

Explanation:

The right of a company to monitor the activities of their employees on its information systems is typically defined under the "User Access Control" policy. This policy sets out the rules and conditions under which employee activities can be monitored, ensuring that monitoring is conducted legally and ethically while protecting the privacy rights of employees. It often includes provisions for the monitoring of email, internet use, and other digital interactions to safeguard company assets and ensure compliance with corporate policies. References: The establishment and enforcement of user access control policies are fundamental principles in cybersecurity management and are discussed in Network Defender training materials.

NEW QUESTION # 706

With which of the following flag sets does the Xmas tree scan send a TCP frame to a remote device? Each correct answer represents a part of the solution. Choose all that apply.

- A. URG
- B. FIN
- C. PUSH
- D. RST

Answer: A,B,C

Explanation:

With the URG, PUSH, and FIN flag sets, the Xmas tree scan sends a TCP frame to a remote device. The Xmas tree scan is called an Xmas tree scan because the alternating bits are turned on and off in the flags byte (00101001), much like the lights of a Christmas tree. Answer option B is incorrect. The RST flag is not set when the Xmas tree scan sends a TCP frame to a remote device.

NEW QUESTION # 707

Wallcot, a retail chain in US and Canada, wants to improve the security of their administration offices. They want to implement a mechanism with two doors. Only one of the doors can be opened at a time. Once people enter from the first door, they have to be authorized to open the next one. Failing the authorization, the person will be locked between the doors until an authorized person lets him or her out. What is such a mechanism called?

- A. Mantrap
- B. Alarm system
- C. Concealed detection device
- D. Physical locks

Answer: A

Explanation:

The apt-get command is a powerful and free package management utility for Debian-based Linux distributions. It is used for handling packages and is utilized to install, update, and remove software on Debian systems. The apt-get command is the recommended tool for doing upgrades from one Debian GNU/Linux release to another, as it effectively manages dependencies and ensures that all necessary changes are made during an upgrade.

References: The Debian Wiki recommends using apt-get for upgrading Debian distributions¹. It is a well-documented and widely recognized tool within the Debian community and is included in the official Debian documentation as the preferred method for system updates and upgrades.
