Azure SQL Database built-in intelligence automatically tunes your databases to optimize performance. Click here to learn more about automatic tuning.

Inherit from: Server Azure defaults Don't inherit

The database is inheriting automatic tuning configuration from Azure defaults.

Configure the automatic tuning options

OPTION	DESIRED STATE	CURRENT STATE
 FORCE PLAN	ON OFF <input checked="" type="button" value="INHERIT"/>	 ON Auto-configured by Azure

NEW QUESTION # 159

You receive numerous alerts from Azure Monitor for an Azure SQL database.

You need to reduce the number of alerts. You must only receive alerts if there is a significant change in usage patterns for an extended period.

Which two actions should you perform? Each correct answer presents part of the solution.

NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.

- A. Set the Alert logic threshold to Dynamic
- B. Set Force Plan to On
- C. Set Threshold Sensitivity to High
- D. Set the Alert logic threshold to Static
- E. Set Threshold Sensitivity to Low

Answer: A,E

Explanation:

B: Dynamic Thresholds continuously learns the data of the metric series and tries to model it using a set of algorithms and methods. It detects patterns in the data such as seasonality (Hourly / Daily / Weekly), and is able to handle noisy metrics (such as machine CPU or memory) as well as metrics with low dispersion (such as availability and error rate).

D: Alert threshold sensitivity is a high-level concept that controls the amount of deviation from metric behavior required to trigger an alert.

Low - The thresholds will be loose with more distance from metric series pattern. An alert rule will only trigger on large deviations, resulting in fewer alerts.

Incorrect Answers:

A: High - The thresholds will be tight and close to the metric series pattern. An alert rule will be triggered on the smallest deviation, resulting in more alerts.

NEW QUESTION # 160

You have an Azure virtual machine based on a custom image named VM1.

VM1 hosts an instance of Microsoft SQL Server 2019 Standard.

You need to automate the maintenance of VM1 to meet the following requirements:

- Automate the patching of SQL Server and Windows Server.
- Automate full database backups and transaction log backups of the databases on VM1.
- Minimize administrative effort.

What should you do first?

- A. Register VM1 to the Microsoft.SqlVirtualMachine resource provider
- B. Install an Azure virtual machine Desired State Configuration (DSC) extension on VM1
- C. Enable a system-assigned managed identity for VM1
- D. Register VM1 to the Microsoft.Sql resource provider

Answer: A

Explanation:

Automated Patching depends on the SQL Server infrastructure as a service (IaaS) Agent Extension. The SQL Server IaaS Agent Extension (SqlIaaSExtension) runs on Azure virtual machines to automate administration tasks. The SQL Server IaaS extension is installed when you register your SQL Server VM with the SQL Server VM resource provider.

To utilize the SQL IaaS Agent extension, you must first register your subscription with the Microsoft.SqlVirtualMachine provider, which gives the SQL IaaS extension the ability to create resources within that specific subscription.
