NEW QUESTION # 46
Which of the following is an example of 'being agile' rather than just 'doing agile'?

- A. A product owner is gathering requirements from customers and coaching them on how to write user stories
- B. A full Scrum team is working together on a product's development with multiple large dashboards
- C. A customer has embraced the new iterative approach and now focuses on the requirements that add value
- D. A team of developers is working together in a common room and readily communicating with each other

Answer: C

Explanation:
'Being agile' refers to embracing the mindset and principles of agility, not just following agile practices mechanically. Option D illustrates 'being agile' because the customer has embraced the iterative approach and focuses on requirements that add real value, which reflects true agile values such as customer collaboration, responding to change, and delivering value early and continuously. Options A, B, and C describe activities related to agile practices but don't necessarily reflect the deeper agile mindset or cultural shift fundamental to 'being agile'.

NEW QUESTION # 49
Which technique is used in the 'Issues' practice?

- A. Trading/swapping
- B. Objectives and key results
- C. Delegation poker
- D. Refactoring

Answer: A

Explanation:
Trading/swapping is a technique used within the issues practice to manage and resolve conflicts or competing priorities by negotiating trade-offs. For example, scope items, resources, or deadlines may be traded or swapped between stakeholders to reach agreements that keep the project on track.
This collaborative negotiation supports flexible, pragmatic issue resolution, aligning with agile values of collaboration and customer focus. It enables project teams to balance competing demands while maintaining progress and business justification.
Objectives and key results (B) are goal-setting tools, refactoring (C) is a technical practice for code improvement, and delegation poker (D) is about decision-making authority - none specifically target issue resolution.
Trading/swapping aligns with PRINCE2's controlled management of issues and agile's collaborative problem- solving approach.
