- A. Extension Rules
- B. User-Defined Attributes
- C. Item Structure
- D. Structure Component Attributes
- E. Operational Attributes

Answer: A

Explanation:

Extension rules are not part of a Configurator Model Item Snapshot. Extension rules are custom actions that you can define in the Configurator Modeling Environment to manipulate data on sales orders, such as adding, updating, copying, or returning lines¹. A Configurator Model Item Snapshot is a copy of the item-based model structure that you import from the Product Information Management work area into the Configurator Models work area². A Configurator Model Item Snapshot consists of the following components³:

* Item Structure: The hierarchy of the model and its components, including the optional components that can be configured by the user.

* Operational Attributes: The attributes that control the behavior of the model and its components, such as the minimum and maximum quantity, the default quantity, and the pricing attributes.

* User-Defined Attributes: The additional attributes that you can add to the model and its components to capture more information or to control the configuration process, such as the color, size, or style of an item.

* Structure Component Attributes: The attributes that define the relationship between the model and its components, such as the inclusion rule, the exclusion rule, and the compatibility rule.

NEW QUESTION # 117

Your organization prices customer sales orders using multiple conditional attributes. Pricing Cloud has a feature that allows you to get values for these attributes on a pricing matrix according to a value set. You use the Domain Type attribute in a pricing matrix or matrix class to specify the value set.

Which configuration is NOT supported by this feature?

- A. Use value set values to determine pricing segment.
- B. Use new value set domain type as part of a condition.
- C. Use value set values to determine pricing algorithm.
- D. Use values from a value set in a matrix.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Use value set values to determine pricing algorithm.

Pricing Cloud does not support using value set values to determine pricing algorithm. Pricing algorithm is a predefined formula that calculates the price of an item or service. You can use value set values to determine pricing segment, which is a group of customers who share common characteristics and pricing preferences.

You can also use new value set domain type as part of a condition, which is a rule that evaluates whether a pricing strategy, segment, or matrix applies to a transaction. You can also use values from a value set in a matrix, which is a table that defines the price of an item or service based on one or more attributes.
