The CGFM certification program is designed to provide professionals with the knowledge and skills they need to excel in government financial management. Certified Government Financial Manager (CGFM) certification exam covers three key areas: governmental environment, governmental accounting, financial reporting, and budgeting, and financial management and control. Professionals who earn the CGFM certification have demonstrated their proficiency in these areas, which are critical to the efficient and effective operation of government financial management.

The Certified Government Financial Manager (CGFM) certification exam is a professional credential that is designed to recognize individuals who have mastered the principles of government financial management, accounting, and auditing. The CGFM certification is awarded by the Association of Government Accountants (AGA), a professional organization that promotes accountability and transparency in government financial management. The CGFM Exam is an important step for individuals who want to advance their careers in government financial management.

To qualify for the CGFM exam, candidates must meet certain eligibility requirements, including a minimum of a bachelor's degree and at least two years of experience in government financial management. Candidates must also adhere to a code of ethics and professional conduct, demonstrating their commitment to the highest standards of integrity and professionalism in their work. In addition, candidates must pass all three parts of the CGFM exam within three years of their initial application.

NEW QUESTION # 78

When planning for local government financial statement audit, what data source should the auditor consider first?

- A. fund financial statements
- B. government-wide financial statements
- C. previous audit findings
- D. reconciliations between fund financial statements

Answer: C

Explanation:

* Importance of Prior Audit Findings:

* When planning a local government financial statement audit, auditors should first review previous audit findings to identify recurring issues, control weaknesses, or non-compliance areas. This helps auditors focus on areas of higher risk and guides the development of an effective audit strategy.

* Explanation of Answer Choices:

* A. Government-wide financial statements: Important, but these are reviewed after identifying risk areas from prior findings.

* B. Fund financial statements: These are part of the audit process but not the starting point for planning.

* C. Reconciliations between fund financial statements: These are analyzed during the audit but come later in the process.

* D. Previous audit findings: Correct. Reviewing past findings ensures the auditor addresses previously identified risks and compliance issues.
