SAP Certified Associate - Back-End Developer - ABAP Cloud Sample Questions (Q39-Q44):

NEW QUESTION # 39

You have two internal tables itab1 and itab2. What is true for using the expression itab1 = corresponding #( itab2 )? Note: There are 2 correct answers to this question.

- A. itab1 and itab2 must have the same data type.
- B. Fields with the same name and the same type will be copied from itab2 to itab1.
- C. itab1 and itab2 must have at least one field name in common.
- D. Fields with the same name but with different types may be copied from itab2 to itab1.

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

The expression itab1 = corresponding #( itab2 ) is a constructor expression with the component operator CORRESPONDING that assigns the contents of the internal table itab2 to the internal table itab1. The following statements are true for using this expression:
B: itab1 and itab2 must have at least one field name in common. This is because the component operator CORRESPONDING assigns the identically named columns of itab2 to the identically named columns of itab1 by default, according to the rules of MOVE-CORRESPONDING for internal tables. If itab1 and itab2 do not have any field name in common, the expression will not assign any value to itab1 and it will remain initial or unchanged.
C: Fields with the same name and the same type will be copied from itab2 to itab1. This is because the component operator CORRESPONDING assigns the identically named columns of itab2 to the identically named columns of itab1 by default, according to the rules of MOVE-CORRESPONDING for internal tables. If the columns have the same name but different types, the assignment will try to perform a conversion between the types, which may result in a loss of precision, a truncation, or a runtime error, depending on the types involved.
The following statements are false for using this expression:

A: Fields with the same name but with different types may be copied from itab2 to itab1. This is not true, as explained in statement C.
D: itab1 and itab2 must have the same data type. This is not true, as the component operator CORRESPONDING can assign the contents of an internal table of one type to another internal table of a different type, as long as they have at least one field name in common. The target type of the expression is determined by the left-hand side of the assignment, which is itab1 in this case. The expression will create an internal table of the same type as itab1 and assign it to itab1.

NEW QUESTION # 40

While debugging an ABAP program, you want the program to stop whenever the value of a variable changes. Which of the following do you use?

- A. Conditional breakpoint
- B. Watchpoint
- C. Exception breakpoint

Answer: B

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation from Exact Extract:

- * A watchpoint halts program execution when the content of a specified variable changes.
- * Exception breakpoints # Trigger when exceptions are raised.
- * Conditional breakpoints # Stop only if a Boolean condition is true at that line.

Thus, watchpoint is the correct tool for variable-change monitoring.
