CFA Institute Sustainable Investing Certificate (CFA-SIC) Exam Sample Questions (Q491-Q496):

NEW QUESTION # 491

Jurisdictions are most likely to impose extraterritorial laws in relation to:

- A. paying suppliers appropriately and promptly.
- B. bribery and corruption
- C. upholding high standards in health and safety

Answer: B

Explanation:

Jurisdictions are most likely to impose extraterritorial laws in relation to bribery and corruption.

Extraterritorial laws are those that have legal force beyond the borders of the issuing country, and they are often applied to combat global issues such as corruption.

Global Standards: Countries impose extraterritorial laws to ensure that their nationals and corporations comply with anti-bribery and anti-corruption standards, regardless of where they operate. This helps maintain ethical business practices internationally.

Regulatory Frameworks: Prominent examples of extraterritorial laws include the U.S. Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA) and the UK Bribery Act, which apply to activities conducted abroad by U.S. and UK entities, respectively. These laws aim to prevent and penalize bribery and corruption on a global scale.

Enforcement and Compliance: By implementing extraterritorial anti-corruption laws, jurisdictions can enforce compliance and hold companies accountable for corrupt practices in foreign countries, promoting transparency and integrity in international business.

NEW QUESTION # 492

Within fixed income, ESG integration is most developed in:

- A. Sovereign debt

- B. Securitized bonds
- C. Corporate bonds

Answer: C

Explanation:

ESG integration is most developed in corporate bonds, where ESG factors directly affect credit ratings, risk assessment, and investment decisions.

Sovereign debt (A) ESG integration is growing but less standardized.

Securitized bonds (C) have lower ESG data transparency.

NEW QUESTION # 493

When undertaking an ESG assessment of a private equity deal ESG screening and due diligence will most likely take place during:

- A. deal sourcing
- B. exit
- C. ownership

Answer: A

Explanation:

When undertaking an ESG assessment of a private equity deal, ESG screening and due diligence are most likely to take place during the deal sourcing phase. Here's why:

Initial Evaluation: ESG screening at the deal sourcing stage allows investors to evaluate potential investments against their ESG criteria before committing significant resources. This helps in identifying any red flags or areas of concern early in the process.

Risk Management: Conducting ESG due diligence early helps in managing risks associated with environmental, social, and governance issues. By understanding these risks upfront, investors can make more informed decisions and potentially avoid costly issues later.

Integration into Investment Strategy: ESG considerations integrated during deal sourcing ensure that these factors are part of the overall investment strategy and decision-making process. This alignment is crucial for achieving long-term sustainable returns.

Regulatory Compliance and Reputation: Early ESG assessments help in ensuring compliance with relevant regulations and standards, and in protecting the investor's reputation by avoiding investments in companies with poor ESG practices.

References:

MSCI ESG Ratings Methodology (2022) - Highlights the importance of early ESG assessments in identifying risks and opportunities, ensuring that ESG factors are integrated into the investment process from the beginning.

NEW QUESTION # 494

Which of the following is most likely associated with positive screening?

- A. Thematic investing
- B. Green investing
- C. Best-in-class investing

Answer: C

Explanation:

Positive screening, or best-in-class investing, involves selecting companies that rank highly on ESG criteria relative to their peers within the same sector, rather than excluding entire sectors. (ESGTextBook

NEW QUESTION # 495

The Integrated Biodiversity Assessment Tool (IBAT) is best described as an interactive mapping tool allowing decision makers to:

- A. identify biodiversity risks and opportunities within a project boundary
- B. assess companies' preparedness for biodiversity risk
- C. manage biodiversity and social risk in project finance

Answer: A

Explanation:

The Integrated Biodiversity Assessment Tool (IBAT) is best described as an interactive mapping tool allowing decision-makers to identify biodiversity risks and opportunities within a project boundary.

Purpose of IBAT: IBAT is designed to provide up-to-date information on biodiversity, helping users understand the potential environmental impacts of projects. It is widely used by businesses, governments, and conservation organizations.

Functionality: The tool provides detailed maps and data on protected areas, key biodiversity areas, and other important ecological sites. This information helps in assessing the potential risks and opportunities related to biodiversity within the geographic boundaries of a project.

Decision-Making: By identifying these risks and opportunities, decision-makers can make informed choices to mitigate negative impacts on biodiversity and enhance positive contributions to environmental conservation.

CFA ESG Investing Reference:

The CFA Institute's materials on environmental risk assessment highlight the importance of tools like IBAT in integrating biodiversity considerations into project planning and investment decisions, ensuring sustainable and responsible business practices.
