CompTIA Cloud+ (2024) Sample Questions (Q84-Q89):

NEW QUESTION # 84

Servers in the hot site are clustered with the main site.

- A. Offline server backups are replicated hourly from the main site.
- B. Which of the following best describes a characteristic of a hot site?
- C. Network traffic is balanced between the main site and hot site servers.
- D. All servers are replicated from the main site in an online status.

Answer: D

Explanation:

When servers in a hot site are clustered with the main site, it indicates that all servers are replicated from the main site in an online status. This means that the hot site maintains a live, real-time copy of data and applications, ensuring immediate availability in the event of a failure at the main site. Unlike options A and B, which describe load balancing and backup strategies respectively, clustering with a hot site as described in option C ensures that the hot site can take over with minimal downtime, maintaining business continuity.

NEW QUESTION # 85

A cloud administrator learns that a major version update, 4.6.0, is available for a business-critical application.

The application is currently on version 4.5.2, with additional minor versions 3, 4, and 5 available. The administrator needs to perform the update while minimizing downtime. Which of the following should the administrator do first?

- A. Create a test environment and apply the major update
- B. Apply the minor updates and then restart the machine before applying the major update.
- C. Stop the service and apply the major updates directly.
- D. During off hours, decommission the machine and create a new one directly on major update 4.6.0.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The first step the administrator should take is to create a test environment and apply the major update there.

This allows for testing the new version without impacting the production environment, thus minimizing downtime and the potential for unexpected issues.

Creating test environments and conducting thorough testing before applying updates in production is a risk mitigation strategy covered under cloud deployment and operations in the CompTIA Cloud+ certification.

NEW QUESTION # 86

A cloud security analyst is looking for existing security vulnerabilities on software applications.

Which of the following describes this vulnerability management phase?

- A. Identification
- B. Report
- C. Remediation
- D. Analyze

Answer: A

Explanation:

The phase of vulnerability management that involves looking for existing security vulnerabilities on software applications is known as 'Identification'. This step precedes analysis, reporting, and remediation, focusing on discovering known and unknown vulnerabilities within the system or software to assess the security posture effectively.

NEW QUESTION # 87

A security engineer identifies a vulnerability in a containerized application. The vulnerability can be exploited by a privileged process to read the content of the host's memory. The security engineer reviews the following Dockerfile to determine a solution to mitigate similar exploits:

Which of the following is the best solution to prevent similar exploits by privileged processes?

- A. Adding the `USER myappuser` instruction
- B. Patching the host running the Docker daemon
- C. Changing `FROM alpine:3.17` to `FROM alpine:latest`
- D. Running the container with the `read-only` filesystem configuration

Answer: A

Explanation:

Adding the "USER myappuser" instruction to the Dockerfile is the best solution to prevent similar exploits by privileged processes. This instruction ensures that the container runs as a non-privileged user instead of the root user, significantly reducing the risk of privileged exploits. Running containers with least privilege principles minimizes the potential impact of vulnerabilities, enhancing the overall security posture of the containerized environment.

The CompTIA Cloud+ framework includes security concerns, measures, and concepts for cloud operations, highlighting the importance of container security practices, such as running containers as non-root users to prevent unauthorized access and exploitation.

NEW QUESTION # 88

A cloud engineer is troubleshooting a connectivity issue. The application server with IP 192.168.1.10 in one subnet is not connecting to the MySQL database server with IP 192.168.2.20 in a different subnet. The cloud engineer reviews the following information:

Application Server Stateful Firewall

Inbound rules	Outbound rules
PERMIT ANY 443	PERMIT ANY 443
DENY ANY ANY	PERMIT ANY 3306
	PERMIT ANY 53
	DENY ANY ANY

Application Server Subnet Routing Table

Destination	Gateway
default	192.168.1.1
192.168.1.0/24	local

MySQL Server Stateful Firewall

Inbound rules	Outbound rules
PERMIT 192.168.1.10/32	DENY ANY ANY
3306
DENY ANY ANY

MySQL Server Subnet Routing Table

Destination	Gateway
192.168.2.0/24	192.168.1.1
192.168.1.0/24	local

Which of the following should the cloud engineer address to fix the communication issue?

- A. The Application Server Subnet Routing Table
- B. The MySQL Server Stateful Firewall
- C. The MySQL Server Subnet Routing Table
- D. The Application Server Stateful Firewall

Answer: B

Explanation:

The connectivity issue between the application server and the MySQL database server in different subnets is likely due to the MySQL Server Stateful Firewall's inbound rules. The application server has an IP of 192.168.1.10, but the MySQL server's inbound rules only permit IP 192.168.1.10/32 on port 3306. This rule allows only a single IP address (192.168.1.10) to communicate on port 3306, which is typical for MySQL.

However, if the application server's IP is not 192.168.1.10 or the application is trying to communicate on a different port, it would be blocked. To fix the communication issue, the cloud engineer should address the inbound rules on the MySQL Server Stateful Firewall to ensure that the application server's IP address and the required port are allowed.
