NEW QUESTION # 38

A Platform Engineer is deploying an NKP cluster within an air-gapped AWS environment. However, after an infrastructure planning session with the network team, it's been determined that the default CIDR block range that is used by pods on NKP clusters is already in use in their environment.

How can the engineer ensure there are no collisions between NKP pod traffic and the existing network using that subnet range?

- A. Because the environment is air-gapped, there will be no network traffic collision concerns and no adjustment needs to be made to the pod network CIDR block range.
- B. Create the NKP cluster's manifest using the `nkp create cluster` command set and include the pod CIDR block range parameter when generating the cluster manifest. Deploy the NKP cluster manifest.
- C. Create an NKP infrastructure provider for AWS in the NKP UI. When deploying the NKP cluster through the UI, specify a unique CIDR block range for the pod network field in the Network section of the Create Cluster page.
- D. Create an NKP infrastructure provider for AWS in the NKP UI. Select the Advanced Options button from the Network section of the Create Cluster page and specify a unique CIDR block range within the pod network field.

Deploy the NKP applications using the nkp install kommander command, specifying the output file. Once the NKP applications install has completed, execute kubectl delete hr -n kommander velero.
- B. Execute nkp config kommander --init to an output file. Disable Velero in the output file and set the custom specs for the components to be modified. Deploy the applications using the helm install command, specifying the output file.
- C. Execute nkp config kommander. Disable Velero in the resulting output file and set the custom specs for the components to be modified. Deploy the NKP applications using the nkp install kommander command, specifying the output file.
- D. Execute nkp install kommander --init to an output file. Disable Velero in the output file and set the custom specs for the components to be modified. Deploy the NKP applications using the nkp install kommander command, specifying the output file.
