A SaaS provider wants to maintain maximum availability for its service.
Which of the following should be implemented to attain the maximum SLA?

- A. A warm site
- B. A cold site
- C. An active-active site
- D. A hot site

Answer: C

Explanation:

An active-active site is a type of disaster recovery (DR) site that runs simultaneously with the primary site and handles part of the normal workload or traffic. An active-active site can help maintain maximum availability for a SaaS service, as it can provide load balancing, redundancy, and failover capabilities for the SaaS service in case of an outage or disruption at the primary site. An active-active site can also improve performance and scalability, as it can distribute the workload or traffic across multiple sites and handle increased demand or peak periods. Explanation

The best feature to reduce the storage consumption of a SAN appliance that is running a VDI environment is deduplication. Deduplication is a process that eliminates redundant or duplicate data blocks or files from a storage system and replaces them with pointers or references to a single copy of data. Deduplication can significantly reduce the storage consumption of a SAN appliance by removing unnecessary data and freeing up disk space. NEW QUESTION # 126

During a security incident, an IaaS compute instance is detected to send traffic to a host related to cryptocurrency mining. The security analyst handling the incident determines the scope of the incident is limited to that particular instance. Which of the following should the security analyst do NEXT?

- A. Isolate the instance from the network into quarantine.
- B. Create a snapshot of the volumes attached to the instance.
- C. Perform a memory acquisition in the affected instance.
- D. Replace the instance with another from the baseline.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The first step in incident response is to contain the incident activities and attackers, which means preventing them from spreading to other systems or causing more damage. In this case, the security analyst should isolate the instance from the network into quarantine, which means cutting off its communication with other hosts and services. This will stop the cryptocurrency mining activity and prevent the attacker from accessing the instance remotely.
