AVIXA Certified Technology Specialist Sample Questions (Q168-Q173):

NEW QUESTION # 168

During a site survey, a client states that there will be no acoustical treatment to their new council chamber and they want a voice lifting (reinforcement) system. Which loudspeaker should be recommended to achieve optimal speech intelligibility?

- A. broad beam loudspeaker
- B. coaxial loudspeaker
- C. narrow beam loudspeaker
- D. ceiling mount loudspeaker

Answer: C

Explanation:

In a space with no acoustic treatment, a narrow beam loudspeaker is ideal for voice reinforcement as it can focus sound more precisely to reduce reverberation and enhance speech intelligibility. This directionality minimizes sound reflections that can degrade clarity in untreated spaces.

CTS Technology Specialist Reference

CTS materials on audio system design recommend narrow beam loudspeakers for environments with challenging acoustics to maintain intelligibility.

NEW QUESTION # 170

When planning video content with a client, it is important to get their Pantone data (PMS) to ensure

- A. the displayed type face is the correct size and style.
- B. their confidence monitor size is large enough.
- C. the displayed logo is the proper size and style.
- D. the displayed colors match printed colors.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Pantone data (PMS) is used to ensure color consistency between digital displays and printed materials. This is critical in branding to maintain accurate color representation across different mediums, particularly for logos and brand colors.

CTS Technology Specialist ReferenceCTS guidelines on content creation emphasize color matching as a key consideration for client branding, often involving Pantone color standards to achieve consistency.

NEW QUESTION # 171

In an audiovisual system where a touch panel is to be connected to the control system via the LAN, the designer may choose to use a

- A. MAC address.
- B. static IP address.
- C. shared IP address.
- D. host IP address.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 172

When calibrating a loudspeaker system, which weight setting on the SPL meter is used for its measurement of low frequency sound levels in the measurement?

- A. Weighted
- B. Weighted
- C. Weighted
- D. Weighted

Answer: B

Explanation:

When calibrating a loudspeaker system, the C-weighted setting on an SPL (Sound Pressure Level) meter is typically used because it provides a relatively flat frequency response, including low-frequency sound levels.

This makes it more suitable for accurately measuring the overall sound pressure level, especially in environments where low-frequency performance is critical, such as in audio and home theater systems. The C-weighted setting captures the full range of audible frequencies, ensuring a comprehensive and precise calibration.
