Nutanix Certified Associate v6.10 Sample Questions (Q43-Q48):

NEW QUESTION # 43

An administrator wants to create a storage container for an application that has built-in redundancy. What should the administrator do?

- A. Create an RF1 storage container.
- B. Enable RF1 and create an RF1 storage container.
- C. RF1 is enabled by default in a storage container.
- D. Create an RF1 storage container and enable RF1.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The correct answer is B. Create an RF1 storage container.

In Nutanix architecture, Replication Factor (RF) is set at the storage container level to optimize redundancy and performance for specific workloads. When an application has its own internal redundancy, such as database clustering or distributed file systems, the administrator may choose to reduce Nutanix's redundancy to RF1, which stores only one copy of data in the cluster. This reduces overhead and maximizes usable capacity, but is not fault-tolerant at the Nutanix level.

Key clarifications:

- * RF1 is not enabled by default. Nutanix clusters default to RF2 or RF3 depending on the configuration and number of nodes.
- * RF1 must be explicitly set when creating a storage container.
- * There is no separate "enable RF1" setting outside of selecting RF1 at container creation; once selected, it applies directly.

Prism UI Navigation Path:

Storage > Storage Containers > Create Storage Container > Data Redundancy Level # Select "RF1" Official Reference:

- * Nutanix Bible - Storage Layer and RF Explanation
- * Nutanix Storage Administration Guide - "Creating Containers with Specific Replication Factor"
- * Excerpt: "RF1 is typically used for workloads with native redundancy. It must be selected explicitly during container creation."

Conclusion: Only option B accurately reflects this process.

NEW QUESTION # 44

What is the purpose of the OpLog?

- A. Persistent data storage
- B. Dynamic read cache
- C. Persistent write buffer
- D. Global metadata

Answer: C

Explanation:

The OpLog (Operational Log) in Nutanix serves as a persistent write buffer for incoming I/O operations. It temporarily stores write requests to ensure fast acknowledgment to clients and better performance. The data is later coalesced and written to the Extent Store for long-term storage.

- * A. Persistent write buffer: Correct, as the OpLog optimizes write performance by buffering writes temporarily.
- * B. Persistent data storage: Incorrect, as this describes the Extent Store, not the OpLog.
- * C. Global metadata: Incorrect, as metadata operations are handled by the Metadata Store.
- * D. Dynamic read cache: Incorrect, as read caching is managed separately, often involving SSD-based caches.
