PMI Agile Certified Practitioner Sample Questions (Q167-Q172):

NEW QUESTION # 167

Osmotic communication is when team members obtain information from overhead conversations.

- A. False
- B. True

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 168

What should the team have done to prevent this?

- A. Worked on features rather than a set of components
- B. Ensured that requirements remained stable during the iteration cycle
- C. Reprioritized requirements prior to committing to iteration work
- D. Had stakeholders focus on items created after the product backlog was initially built

Answer: C

Explanation:

Delivering value in agile depends on frequent prioritization and real-time feedback. According to the PMI Agile Practice Guide (Section 5.1 Product Backlog and Prioritization), product owners and agile teams must continuously reprioritize the backlog based on changing stakeholder needs, market shifts, and feedback. Failure to do so can result in building the wrong product—even if it's "done." Mike Griffiths (PMI-ACP Exam Prep Book, Chapter 6: Value-Driven Delivery) stresses that value delivery is iterative and depends on current priorities, not static backlogs. It is vital that teams confirm that they're working on the highest-value items before committing to a sprint.

* Option A is correct: proper backlog refinement and reprioritization ensures alignment with evolving stakeholder needs.

* Option B is an anti-pattern; agile welcomes change even late in development.

* Option C and D are irrelevant or do not address the core issue of prioritization.
