ISTQB Certified Tester - Performance Testing Sample Questions (Q22-Q27):

NEW OUESTION #22

Which of the following is an advantage of using performance monitoring tools?

- A. They can proactively detect denial-of-service (DoS) attacks.
- B. They more easily identify and report multi-threading problems.
- C. They proactively compile metrics from server logs.

• D. They can prevent malicious behavior.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Performance monitoring tools collect real-time and historical performance data, particularly from server logs, application metrics, and infrastructure monitoring. This allows testers to analyze performance trends efficiently.

Option A is incorrect because monitoring tools do not prevent malicious behavior but may detect it.

Option C is incorrect since identifying multi-threading issues is typically done through profiling tools rather than performance monitors.

Option D is incorrect as DoS attack detection falls under security testing.

NEW OUESTION #23

Which of the following is the most economical solution to minimize costs and time for performance testing for a high-end production client-server platform?

- A. Cloud-based environment
- B. No environment
- C. Isolated lab environment
- D. Mainframe environment

Answer: A

Explanation:

A cloud-based environment is the most cost-effective solution for performance testing. It offers scalability, pay-per-use models, and flexibility, allowing testers to simulate large workloads without expensive infrastructure investments.

Option A (Isolated lab environment) is costly due to hardware maintenance and infrastructure costs.

Option C (Mainframe environment) is expensive and impractical for performance testing.

Option D (No environment) is not a viable option.

NEW OUESTION #24

During performance testing, in addition to the transaction response time, which of the following is needed to accurately reflect the total time to complete a transaction?

- A. Wait time
- B. Think time
- C. User time
- D. Action time

Answer: A

Explanation:

Wait time is the period a transaction spends waiting for resources, database responses, or external services before completing. It is critical for understanding real-world transaction durations.

Option A (Think time) refers to user delays, not system delays.

Option C (Action time) focuses on execution time only.

Option D (User time) is not a standard performance metric.

NEW QUESTION #25

Which of the following is a best practice to include in performance test scripts when verifying results?

- A. Hold the development team accountable for system performance.
- B. Increase the number of scripts executed to provide greater coverage.
- C. Add transaction timers to collect response times.
- D. Verify that correct information was added to the database.

Answer: D

Explanation:

One of the best practices in performance test scripting is to validate that correct data is recorded in the database after execution. This ensures that performance issues do not impact data integrity.

Option A (Increasing the number of scripts) may provide more coverage but does not verify accuracy.

Option C (Adding transaction timers) is useful for performance monitoring but does not ensure correct data entry.

Option D (Holding the development team accountable) is a management responsibility, not a scripting best practice.

NEW OUESTION #26

Stakeholders were unhappy with previous performance test results, which indicated that the adjustments were not made fast enough and engine stall was probable. The developers have now made changes that they believe will significantly improve the performance of the adjustments.

What should you do to ensure the performance test objectives have been properly defined before you run the next set of performance tests?

- A. Realign performance test objectives with business stakeholders to meet project milestone dates.
- B. Realign performance test objectives with all stakeholders to meet time-to-market goals.
- C. Adjust stakeholder expectations to be more aligned with the reality of the previous test results.
- D. Understand the delta between the results from previous performance tests and the results from the expected performance improvements.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Before running the next set of performance tests, it is crucial to understand the differences (delta) between the previous test results and the expected improvements. This ensures that:

The changes made by developers are properly validated.

Performance objectives are aligned with measurable improvements.

Option B (Adjust stakeholder expectations) is incorrect, as performance testing should focus on real data rather than adjusting expectations.

Option C and D (Realign objectives for milestones or time-to-market goals) are incorrect because test objectives should focus on technical accuracy rather than schedule constraints.
