Scrum Professional Scrum Product Owner II Sample Questions (Q16-Q21):

NEW QUESTION # 16
Which of the following statements is TRUE about the Sprint Backlog? (choose the best answer)

- A. The Product Owner has the final say on the scope and the ordering of the Sprint Backlog
- B. The Developers commit to completing the Sprint Backlog by the end of the Sprint time-box.
- C. The Developers own the Sprint Backlog.
- D. It is helpful to have the Sprint Backlog defined before the Sprint Planning.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 17
While working on the current Sprint, the Developers realized that they overestimated the work, selected too much to finish. Likely, they cannot complete all the selected Product Backlog Items within the Sprint.
What should they do now? (choose the best answer).

- A. Dilute the Definition of Done so that the Team can meet and finish all the required Product Backlog Items
- B. The Developers needs to collaborate with the Product Owner as soon as possible to remove some Product Backlog Items.
- C. Wait until the Sprint Review to inform the Product Owner.
- D. Get help from another Scrum Team, establish Knowledge Transfer sessions to spread the knowledge.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 18
As a Product Owner, understanding the Developers's velocity will help you measure time to market and innovation rate.
How does technical debt relate to velocity? (choose the best two answers)

- A. As the Developers are working on new Product Backlog items, they can run into technical debt resulting in an unexpected slow down in velocity
- B. They are not related because technical debt is non-functional and velocity is calculated based on end user functionality.
- C. The Developers can artificially inflate velocity by allowing technical debt to be incurred
- D. Adding estimates to technical debt will allow the Developers to maintain constant velocity therefore ensuring predictability

Answer: A,C

NEW QUESTION # 19
Who is accountable for creating a valuable, useful Increment every Sprint?
(choose the best answer)

- A. The Scrum Master.
- B. The Scrum Team.
- C. The Product Owner.
- D. The Project Manager.

- E. The Developers.

Answer: B

Explanation:
According to the Scrum Guide, the Scrum Team consists of one Scrum Master, one Product Owner, and Developers. The entire Scrum Team is accountable for creating a valuable, useful Increment every Sprint1. The Increment is a concrete step toward achieving the Product Goal, and it must meet the Definition of Done and be usable by the stakeholders1. The Product Owner is accountable for maximizing the value of the product and the work of the Developers1. The Scrum Master is accountable for establishing Scrum as defined in the Scrum Guide, helping everyone understand Scrum theory and practice, and removing impediments to the Scrum Team's progress1. The Developers are accountable for creating any aspect of a usable Increment each Sprint1. All three roles must collaborate and coordinate their efforts to deliver the best possible product2.

NEW QUESTION # 20
You are a Product Owner for a product that publishes customer usage rates by feature.
An influential stakeholder does not believe the data showing the usage rates, and insists that a particular feature is essential, despite data showing low usage rates. The stakeholder believes that measuring feature usage is a waste of time.
As Product Owner you have confirmed that the data is accurate and believe that the data is valuable to help you and your team.
What should you do?
(choose the best answer)

- A. Continue measuring feature usage and use it to inform your decisions, but do not publish it.
- B. Continue to measure and publish the data, to provide openness and transparency, and use it to inform your decisions.
- C. Stop measuring feature usage to appease the stakeholder.

Answer: B

Explanation:
As a Product Owner, you are accountable for maximizing the value of the product and the work of the Scrum Team. To do this, you need to have a clear understanding of the product vision, the product value, and the product backlog management. Measuring feature usage is one way to gather empirical evidence of the value delivered by the product and the feedback from the customers and users. This data can help you validate or invalidate your assumptions, prioritize the product backlog items, and inspect and adapt the product strategy.
Therefore, measuring feature usage is not a waste of time, but a valuable practice for agile product management.
Moreover, as a Product Owner, you are also responsible for engaging with the stakeholders and customers, and providing them with transparency and openness. This means that you should share the data and the insights you gain from it with them, and invite them to collaborate with you and the Scrum Team. This can help you build trust and alignment, and foster a culture of experimentation and learning. Therefore, you should not hide the data or stop measuring it, but rather use it as a basis for constructive dialogue and decision making.
