Medical Tests Pharmacy Technician Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q32-Q37):

NEW QUESTION # 32

A Class III recall:

- A. occurs when a product may cause temporary or medically reversible adverse health consequences.
- B. is initiated by the FDA if a manufacturer has violated the adulteration provisions of the Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (FDCA).
- C. is issued when there is a reasonable probability that the product will cause serious adverse health consequences or death.
- D. applies to products that are not likely to cause adverse health consequences.

Answer: D

Explanation:

The FDA classifies recalls into three levels, with Class III being the least severe:

* Class I Recall#Most severe# Issued when a drug may cause serious harm or death.

* Class II Recall#Moderate severity# The drug may cause temporary or medically reversible adverse effects.

* Class III Recall#Least severe# The product is unlikely to cause harm but violates FDA regulations (e.g., labeling errors, minor packaging issues).

* A. Is issued when there is a reasonable probability that the product will cause serious adverse health consequences or death.##Incorrect

* Describes a Class I recall, not Class III.

* B. Is initiated by the FDA if a manufacturer has violated the adulteration provisions of the Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (FDCA).##Incorrect

* FDA action due to adulteration typically leads to Class I or Class II recalls, depending on severity.

* C. Occurs when a product may cause temporary or medically reversible adverse health consequences.

##Incorrect

* Describes a Class II recall, not Class III.

* FDA Drug Recall Guidelines- Defines Class I, II, and III recalls.

* PTCB PTCE Exam Content Outline- Covers recall classifications and pharmacy responsibilities.

* FDA Enforcement Report- Lists real-world examples of Class III recalls (e.g., mislabeling, incorrect expiration dates).

NEW QUESTION # 34

A prescription for an 8-year-old child with otitis media reads:

Cefdinir suspension 5 mL PO q12h x 10 days

Dispense #100 mL

Before dispensing this prescription, the pharmacy must contact the prescriber because:

- A. cefdinir is not available as a suspension.
- B. the concentration of cefdinir suspension is required.
- C. cefdinir suspension is not indicated for otitis media.
- D. cefdinir suspension was prescribed for a child old enough to swallow capsules.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Cefdinir is a third-generation cephalosporin antibiotic commonly used to treat bacterial infections, including otitis media (middle ear infection) in children. It is available in both capsule and suspension forms. However, cefdinir suspension is supplied in different concentrations, typically 125 mg/5 mL and 250 mg/5 mL.

The prescription provided specifies "Cefdinir suspension 5 mL PO q12h x 10 days", but it does not mention the concentration (strength) of the suspension. Without this crucial information, the pharmacy cannot accurately determine the total dosage the patient will receive. Different strengths would result in significantly different amounts of cefdinir per dose.

For example:

* If the prescriber intended 125 mg/5 mL, then the patient would receive 125 mg per dose (250 mg daily).

* If the prescriber intended 250 mg/5 mL, then the patient would receive 250 mg per dose (500 mg daily).

This discrepancy could lead to underdosing or overdosing, making it essential for the pharmacy to contact the prescriber to confirm the correct concentration before dispensing.

* A. Cefdinir is not available as a suspension. # Incorrect. Cefdinir is available in oral suspension form, typically in 125 mg/5 mL and 250 mg/5 mL concentrations.

* C. Cefdinir suspension is not indicated for otitis media. # Incorrect. Cefdinir is FDA-approved for the treatment of otitis media in pediatric patients.

* D. Cefdinir suspension was prescribed for a child old enough to swallow capsules. # Incorrect.

While some 8-year-old children may be able to swallow capsules, many pediatric patients prefer liquid formulations, and prescribers often choose suspensions for better compliance.

* PTCB PTCE Exam Content Outline - Medication Order Entry and Fill Process (Ensuring accuracy of prescriptions, including strength and formulation).

* FDA Drug Label for Cefdinir- Indicates available strengths and dosing requirements.

* Lexicomp Drug Information for Cefdinir- Lists the recommended pediatric dosages and available suspension concentrations.

* Pharmacology Textbooks (e.g., "Mosby's Pharmacy Technician: Principles and Practice")- Reinforce the importance of verifying missing prescription details before dispensing.
