NEW QUESTION # 18

Which one of the following is a factor that can affect Availability and Reliability?

- A. Inadequate Cooling
- B. Attenuation
- C. Employee Salaries
- D. Radio Active Waves

Answer: A

Explanation:

Availability and reliability are two important aspects of data centre performance that measure how often the system is operational and how dependable it is. According to the EPI Data Centre Framework, availability is the percentage of time that a system or component is in an operable state, while reliability is the probability that a system or component will perform its required function under given conditions for a specified period of time. Both availability and reliability can be affected by various factors, such as design, maintenance, human error, power supply, security, etc. One of the factors that can have a significant impact on both availability and reliability is cooling. Cooling is essential for maintaining the optimal temperature and humidity levels for the IT equipment and preventing overheating, which can cause failures, downtime, and reduced lifespan.

Inadequate cooling can result from insufficient capacity, poor airflow management, faulty components, or environmental conditions. Inadequate cooling can reduce the availability and reliability of the data centre by increasing the risk of thermal stress, hot spots, performance degradation, and equipment damage. Therefore, cooling is a critical factor that can affect availability and reliability in a data centre.

NEW QUESTION # 19

When designing a data centre with a raised-floor setup, where should the air conditioners be placed?

- A. Perpendicular to the cold aisle
- B. Perpendicular to the side of the rack
- C. Close to the entrance door to create an air curtain to avoid hot comes into the computer room
- D. Perpendicular to the hot aisle

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 20

Which of statements below is true?

- A. Single-mode cabling is more expensive than multi-mode cabling.
- B. Single-mode cabling can use both LED and laser as a light source.
- C. Multi-mode cabling can cross longer distances.
- D. Multi-mode cabling is more expensive than single-mode cabling.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Single-mode cabling and multi-mode cabling are two types of fiber optic cables that differ in their core diameter, wavelength, light source, bandwidth, distance, and cost. Single-mode cabling has a smaller core diameter and uses a laser as a light source, which enables it to transmit data over longer distances and higher bandwidths. However, single-mode cabling is also more expensive than multi-mode cabling, because it requires more precise alignment and splicing, and more costly light sources and connectors. Multi-mode cabling has a larger core diameter and uses LEDs or VCSELs as a light source, which makes it cheaper and easier to install and maintain. However, multi-mode cabling also has a shorter distance and lower bandwidth than single-mode cabling, because it suffers from more modal dispersion and attenuation.

NEW QUESTION # 21

What should be a consideration when having casters (rollers/wheels) or feet under the rack?

- A. Skirts at the bottom of the rack to avoid air flow between the hot and cold aisles.
- B. Casters and feet should not be locked to ensure the racks are still able to be moved to another position.

- C. Casters and feet should be of a soft material, for example rubber, to avoid damage to the raised floor tile.
- D. The casters and feet should be larger to avoid a too heavy point load on the floor tile.

Answer: D

Explanation:

The casters and feet under the rack are used to support the weight of the rack and its equipment, and to allow the rack to be moved if needed. However, the casters and feet should also be designed to avoid putting too much pressure on the floor tile, especially if the data centre uses a raised floor system. A too heavy point load on the floor tile can cause the tile to crack, deform, or collapse, which can damage the rack, the equipment, and the underlying infrastructure. To prevent this, the casters and feet should be larger, so that they can distribute the weight over a larger area and reduce the point load. The casters and feet should also be compatible with the floor type and the load rating of the floor tile.

NEW QUESTION # 22

systems are designed specifically to protect the structure of a building.

- A. Total Flooding
- B. Pro-inert
- C. Inergen
- D. Water sprinkler

Answer: D

Explanation:

Water sprinkler systems are designed to protect the structure of a building from fire by suppressing or extinguishing the flames with water. Water sprinkler systems are typically installed in the ceiling or walls of a building and are activated by heat or smoke detectors. Water sprinkler systems can reduce the risk of fire spreading and causing structural damage to the building.
