CompTIA Cloud Essentials+ Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q513-Q518):

NEW QUESTION # 513

An organization plans to keep three of its cloud servers online for another nine months and a fourth server online for a year. The current pricing is $200 per month per server. The cloud provider announced the sale price of $1,500 per year per reserved instance. Which of the following represents the cost savings by converting all four of the cloud servers to reserved instances?

- A. $1,800
- B. $3,600
- C. $900
- D. $2,400

Answer: A

Explanation:

The cost savings by converting all four of the cloud servers to reserved instances can be calculated as follows:

The current pricing is $200 per month per server, which means the total cost for keeping three servers online for another nine months is $$200 \times 3 \times 9 = $5,400$, and the total cost for keeping one server online for a year is $$200 \times 1 \times 12 = $2,400$. The total cost for all four servers is $$5,400 + $2,400 = $7,800$.

The sale price of $1,500 per year per reserved instance means the total cost for converting all four servers to reserved instances is $$1,500 \times 4 = $6,000$.

The cost savings by converting all four servers to reserved instances is $$7,800 - $6,000 = $1,800$.

A company's new systems administrator has been asked to create a new user for the human resources department. Which of the following will help the systems administrator understand the user privileges for each role in the company?

- A. Identity and access control management policy
- B. Change management policy
- C. Standard operating procedures
- D. Classification and management policy

Answer: A

Explanation:

An identity and access control management policy is a document that defines the roles, responsibilities, and rules for managing the identities and access rights of users in an organization¹. It specifies how users are authenticated, authorized, and audited when they access the organization's resources, such as systems, applications, data, and networks¹. An identity and access control management policy also describes the processes and procedures for creating, modifying, suspending, and deleting user accounts and privileges, as well as the standards and guidelines for selecting and managing passwords, tokens, certificates, and other authentication factors¹. An identity and access control management policy can help the systems administrator understand the user privileges for each role in the company, as it defines the access levels and permissions that are granted to different types of users, such as employees, contractors, vendors, partners, and customers¹. The policy also outlines the criteria and conditions for granting, changing, or revoking access rights, based on the principle of least privilege and the need-to-know basis¹. By following the identity and access control management policy, the systems administrator can ensure that the new user for the human resources department has the appropriate and secure access to the resources that are relevant to their job function and responsibilities¹.
