Juniper Mist AI Wired, Specialist (JNCIS-MistAI-Wired) Sample Questions (Q34-Q39):

NEW QUESTION # 34

You have two sites connected to an EVPN network. Each site is using the 172.16.1.0/24 network for its own respective site. How does EVPN prevent overlap in this scenario?

- A. It uses an Ethernet segment identifier (ESI).
- B. It elects a designated forwarder.
- C. It uses a route distinguisher.
- D. It uses a Layer 2 gateway.

Answer: C

Explanation:

EVPN, when used with VXLAN, leverages BGP MPLS/VXLAN control plane mechanisms. To prevent overlapping IP prefixes between different tenants or sites, EVPN uses a Route Distinguisher (RD).

"In EVPN-VXLAN, the route distinguisher (RD) makes routes unique when overlapping IP prefixes or MAC addresses are advertised between multiple tenants or sites." Option A(designated forwarder) applies to multi-homing in EVPN, not prefix uniqueness.

Option B(Layer 2 gateway) does not prevent IP overlap; it bridges VLANs.

Option D(ESI) is used for identifying multi-homed Ethernet segments, not to differentiate overlapping subnets.

Option C(Route Distinguisher) is correct, as it uniquely identifies routes even if the IP addresses are the same across sites.
