MikroTik Certified Network Associate Exam Sample Questions (Q103-

Q108):

NEW QUESTION # 103

Which firewall chain should you use to filter clients' HTTP traffic going through the router?

- A. input
- B. forward
- C. output
- D. prerouting

Answer: B

Explanation:

When a router forwards traffic between two interfaces (such as from LAN to WAN), it uses the forward chain. HTTP traffic initiated by users destined to external servers passes through this chain.

- * A.#prerouting - Used mainly for routing decisions and NAT, not filtering.
- * B.#forward - Used to filter transit traffic.
- * C.#output - For traffic originating from the router itself.
- * D.#input - For traffic destined to the router itself.

Extract from MTCNA Course Material - Firewall Chains:

"Client-to-server traffic, like browsing the web, passes through the forward chain when routed through the router." Extract from Rene Meneses Study Guide - Firewall Structure:

"To block or allow traffic passing through the router (LAN to Internet), use the forward chain." Extract from MikroTik Wiki - Firewall Filtering Overview:

"forward: filters all transit traffic routed through the router."

NEW QUESTION # 104

Action=redirect is applied in:

- A. chain=forward
- B. chain=dstnat
- C. chain=srcnat

Answer: B

Explanation:

The redirect action is only valid in the dstnat chain. It is used to redirect traffic to a service running on the router itself (e.g., redirecting HTTP to a local proxy server).

- * A.#srcnat - Not compatible with redirect
- * B.#forward - Redirect doesn't apply in this chain
- * C.#dstnat - This is the correct and only supported chain for action=redirect Extract from Official MTCNA Course Material - NAT Actions:

"The redirect action is used within the dstnat chain to forward packets to the router's local services." Extract from MikroTik Wiki - NAT Rule Actions:

"Redirect is used in dstnat chain and changes destination address to a local router IP and port."
