SailPoint Certified IdentityNow Engineer Sample Questions (Q69-Q74):

NEW QUESTION # 69

Is this the recommended way to test lifecycle state transitions in IdentityNow?

Solution: Configure and enable lifecycle states. Find a test identity that is not in the target lifecycle state. Manually change the test identity lifecycle state to the target state from the admin user interface. Verify the results of the lifecycle state in the identity's activity page.

- A. No
- B. Yes

Answer: B

Explanation:

Yes, this is the recommended way to test lifecycle state transitions in IdentityNow. To validate how lifecycle states function, administrators can manually set up and enable lifecycle states for testing purposes. By selecting a test identity that is not already in the target state, manually transitioning that identity to the target state using the admin user interface provides a direct and controlled way to observe the transition. The results can be verified in the identity's activity page, where changes in the lifecycle state will be logged, helping to ensure that the lifecycle state functions as expected.

NEW QUESTION # 70

Is this statement true about the purpose of a tenant?

Solution: The default non-production tenant has full performance scalability.

- A. No
- B. Yes

Answer: A

Explanation:

The default non-production tenant does not have the same full performance scalability as a production tenant. Non-production environments are typically configured with reduced resources since they are intended for testing, development, or demonstration rather than handling large-scale, live workloads.

Key Reference from SailPoint Documentation:

Performance Differences Between Tenants: SailPoint non-production tenants are generally scaled down compared to production environments to reflect their testing and demonstration purposes, not for high-performance or large-scale operations.

NEW QUESTION # 71

Is this statement true about certification campaigns?

Solution: Certifications are assigned to the reviewer when the campaign status is Preview Ready.

- A. No
- B. Yes

Answer: A

Explanation:

Certifications are not assigned to the reviewer when the campaign status is "Preview Ready." The "Preview Ready" status indicates that the campaign is prepared for review by administrators, and the certification details can be previewed before launching the campaign. However, the certifications are only assigned to the reviewers once the campaign is in the "Active" status, which signifies the start of the certification process. At this point, reviewers can access the certifications assigned to them.

NEW QUESTION # 72

Is this statement true about using the IdentityNow APIs?

Solution: API documentation is located at <https://docs.sailpoint.com>

- A. No
- B. Yes

Answer: B

Explanation:

SailPoint IdentityNow API documentation is indeed located at <https://docs.sailpoint.com>. This official documentation site contains all the information developers need to interact with IdentityNow through APIs. It includes guidelines on how to authenticate, make requests, and use the API endpoints to automate and integrate with other systems.

Key Reference from SailPoint Documentation:

SailPoint API Documentation: The site docs.sailpoint.com hosts the official API documentation for SailPoint IdentityNow, covering all aspects of using IdentityNow's APIs.

NEW QUESTION # 73

Review the steps.

1. _____
2. Import the virtual appliance (VA) image to the virtualization platform.
3. Start the VA.
4. Log in to the VA using the default credentials.
5. Change the password for the SailPoint user.
6. _____
7. Create a new VA cluster in IdentityNow.
8. Create a new VA configuration in IdentityNow.
9. Download / procure the config.yaml.
10. Configure the keyPassphrase in the config.yaml.
11. Upload the config.yaml into the VA.
12. _____.

Are these the missing steps?

Solution: 1. Click Test Connection on the VA configuration. 6. Download / procure the VA image. 12. Configure networking configurations (as needed).

- A. No
- B. Yes

Answer: A

Explanation:

No, the provided steps are not correct. The sequence of actions is misplaced:

Step 1: Before clicking "Test Connection," you need to download or procure the VA image and import it into the virtualization platform.

Step 6: After logging in and changing the password, the next step is to configure the networking settings, not downloading the image again.

Step 12: After uploading the config.yaml, you should proceed with testing the connection to ensure the VA is correctly configured and can communicate with IdentityNow.

Corrected Steps:

Download / procure the VA image.

Configure networking configurations (as needed).

Click Test Connection on the VA configuration.
