- A. A variant visualizes all tasks to complete the process.
- B. A variant is a set of attributes.
- C. A variant has different process flows.
- D. A variant is a set of cases with the same sequence of tasks.

In Process Mining, a Variant is defined as:

* Option A (A variant is a set of cases with the same sequence of tasks.): This definition accurately captures the essence of what a variant represents in the context of process mining. Variants help in understanding how processes are executed by grouping cases that follow the same sequence of activities or tasks, thus allowing for the analysis of common process flows and identifying deviations or inefficiencies.

* Option B (It runs ETL scripts externally of SAP Signavio Process Intelligence):The standalone connector executes ETL scripts outside the Process Intelligence environment, often in a custom or third- party system, to extract and prepare data for analysis.

* Option D (It uses the API to push data into a process):The connector leverages APIs to push extracted and transformed data into the Process Intelligence environment for further analysis.

* Option E (It can be used if the source system is not covered by standard connectors):The standalone connector is designed for flexibility, allowing integration with source systems that lack predefined connectors in SAP Signavio.

* Option A (It connects to other process modeling platforms and collects process model information)is incorrect as the standalone connector focuses on data integration, not collecting process model metadata.
