NEW QUESTION # 25

What are some types of subprocesses that exist in BPMN?Note: There are 2 correct answers to this question.

- A. Supported subprocess
- B. Collapsed subprocess
- C. Expanded subprocess
- D. Grouped subprocess

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

In BPMN (Business Process Model and Notation), subprocesses are used to simplify complex process diagrams by grouping activities. The types of subprocesses in BPMN include:

* Option A (Expanded subprocess): This subprocess is depicted as a rounded rectangle with a plus sign, indicating that it can be expanded to show the details of the subprocess within the main process diagram.

* Option D (Collapsed subprocess): A collapsed subprocess is represented as a rounded rectangle with a plus sign, but unlike the expanded subprocess, it does not show the internal details within the same diagram. Instead, it simplifies the main process diagram by hiding the complexity of the subprocess.

These subprocess types help manage the complexity of BPMN diagrams, making them easier to understand and navigate.
