Content Explorer List Viewer role group:
Members can see metadata about items with sensitive information, such as file names, locations, sensitivity labels, and policy matches, without accessing the actual file content. This provides the required visibility for AI-related data classification and interaction analysis while adhering to the least privilege principle.
Roles not required:
Content Explorer Content Viewer would give the ability to view the actual content of files, which is more access than needed.
Security Reader is intended for reviewing alerts and incidents but not for analyzing AI prompts and responses.
Insider Risk Management Investigators focus on insider risk investigations, not AI event analysis.
